Security Precautions On Coast

Cuba Threat To Intervene Spurs Dominican Action

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Fidel Castro's threat to intervene in the Dominican Republic has caused the Dominican armed forces to intensify security precautions along the northwest coast.

The armed forces minister, Commodore Franciso J. Rivera Caminero, declined Thursday night to go into details of the coastal watch. But he said naval patrols were concentrating on nearly 100 miles of coastline between Monte Cristi and Puerto Plata. Cuba's eastern tip is 160 miles northeast of Monte Cristi.

The minister also revealed that the Dominican navy recently acquired "several" new high-speed, heavily armed patrol craft from the United States. It was learned, however, that the small boats arrived some time before the new threat from Havana.

The commodore said the reason for the increased vigilance could be found in the words of Castro and the Dominican delegates at the Havana conference of revolutionaries from Latin America, Asia and Africa, which ended Sunday.

In his closing remarks to the conference, Castro declared the Dominican people "should not confront Yankee imperialism alone" and threatened open intervention by international communism in the Dominican Republic.

Earlier in the conference, one of the eight Dominican delegates, Cayetano Rodriguez del Prado of the Dominican Popular Movement, said his country in the future would become the "Viet Nam of the Caribbean."

Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy barred the re-entry of the eight Havana delegates, who also included Euclides Gutierrez Felix, vice minister of the interior in the rebel government Col. Francisco Caamano Deno set up in downtown Santo Domingo after the April revolution.

Another Dominican delegate, Guido Gil, said the group would defy the president's ban and "enter Santo Domingo and fight."

Criticism of the presidential ban has come from two political figures, Ramon Gonzalez Hardy of the Conservative National Civic Union and Hector Aristy, presidential minister in the rebel regime. Both said the order violated a principle set forth in the charter that created the provisional government — the right of every Dominican to live in his country regardless of political belief.

Aristy, regarded as one of the closest advisers to Col. Caamano Deno, declared that persons at the Havana conference identifying themselves as members of the rebel constitutionalist movement had gone on their own and not as representatives of the movement.

Hinted In Manpower Blueprint

U.S. May Avoid Calling Reserves, Guards To Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's blueprint for strengthening the armed forces contains two strong indications that it intends to avoid calling Reservists or National Guardsmen to active duty.

One is Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's statement to Congress that more support-type units must be provided for the regular Army, "inasmuch as it appears desirable to be in a position to deploy additional forces without calling up Reservists."

The other indication lies in the decision to create a new 18,000-man division for the regular Marine Corps.

Last summer, when the administration decided to commit large-scale U.S. ground forces to the Viet Nam war, it was determined that there was time to build up over - all American armed strength over the long haul, relying on higher draft quotas and voluntary enlistments.

Since then the continuing escalation of the U.S. troop commitment in Viet Nam — and prospects that that commitment may reach Korean War proportions — have caused speculation that the Pentagon will have to turn to the National Guard and Reserves.

But the shape of plans for the newest boost in armed manpower by another 113,000 men suggests that the no-callup policy still holds.

Sources said this could be changed, if there was a sudden deterioration in the situation in Viet Nam requiring a swift infusion of major reinforcements.

The 45,599 men to be added to the Army under the new request mainly would be assigned to types of units which the regular forces have lacked and which the Army Reserve forces had been designed to provide in emergencies.

These units, about 140 different kinds, include such outfits as dump truck companies, postal units, well-drilling organizations, military police platoons, maintenance, bridge construction and petroleum elements.

As for the Marines, the decision to organize a new regular division evidently means that the 48,000-man Marine Reserve division and air wing will be retained in civilian life.

With two of its three regular divisions committed in Viet Nam and the Pacific, the corps has been left with a single regular division in the United States, reducing the flexibility of the Marines and the availability of major fighting elements for crises elsewhere.

Senate OKs Birth Control Bill

2 Amendment Proposals Due W.Va. House Action

CHARLESTON (AP) — Votes which would clear the way for introduction of two constitutional amendment proposals awaited the West Virginia House today before the legislature adjourned for the weekend.

One of the proposed amendments to the State Constitution would provide 60-day session of the legislature every year, lengthen House terms from two to four years, and give the legislators power to set their own salaries.

The other would make it easier for counties and cities to vote property tax levies above constitutional limits and bond issues by reducing the required election votes from 60 per cent to simple majorities.

Today's pending House votes were on resolutions simply authorizing introduction of the proposals. This required two-thirds votes in both houses. With that obtained, another round of two-thirds votes would be required to approve the amendments for submission to West Virginia voters in the November election. The resolutions to authorize introduction have not yet come before the Senate.

The resolutions to authorize introduction came out of the House Judiciary Committee Thursday with recommendations for adoption. The resolutions had to precede the amendments themselves because of the constitutional limitations on the 30-day legislative sessions held in the even - numbered years.

Neither subject was in Gov. Hulett C. Smith's proclamation setting the agenda for this session. The 30-day sessions are restricted to the budget, items listed by the governor, and other business approved for introduction by two-thirds votes.

Americans' Death Toll In Viet Reaches 1,750

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in combat in Viet Nam has reached 1,750, surpassing the totals for the Spanish-American and Mexican wars.

A total of 1,733 Americans were killed in combat in the Mexican War and 385 in the Spanish-American War. The Korean War took the lives of 33,629 American servicemen.

The Pentagon's weekly summary Thursday showed 68 U.S. servicemen died in Viet Nam combat last week.

'More Time' Suggested On Tompos Bill

The vice president of the Hancock County Bar Association told members of the West Virginia Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday his group needs more time to study a bill which would establish an Intermediate Court in the county.

Donald R. Donell of Weirton was one of four members of the bar association who appeared before the committee at Charleston to testify on the bill introduced by Sen. William Tompos, a Democrat from Hancock.

The measure would create a court with jurisdiction over felonies, misdemeanors and offenses committeed within the county, and original jurisdiction of all civil actions where the amount in question exceeds $50 but does not exceed $15,000.

Tompos contends the court is needed to alleviate the heavy load of cases awaiting action in the Hancock County Circuit Court. "At present it is about three years from the time a case is instituted until it comes before the circuit court," he said.

Donell told the committee members the bar association thinks a comprehensive study of the situation should be made before any conclusive action is taken. "But in all fairness to Sen. Tompos," he said, "his bill might solve our problems. It will take more study to de-

Military Command In Viet Counts 49 Violations By Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong jolted the lunar New Year cease-fire today by attacking a U.S. Marine patrol near Da Nang and engaging South Korean marines in a two-hour close-quarter battle near the central coast. Two Americans and 46 Communists were reported killed

Two U.S. Marine sergeants were killed when the guerrillas caught a Leatherneck platoon on security patrol in a crossfire of automatic weapons and rifles as it struggled through the mud of a flooded rice paddy 7 miles south of Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Americans poured artillery fire into the enemy positions. One wounded Viet Cong was captured and six suspects were detained.

By nightfall of the second day of the holiday truce, the U.S. military command reported a total of 49 violations by the Communists, but most were regarded as minor brushes. In Saigon, some overanxious Koreans began shooting when they heard the sound of firecrackers as the Vietnamese greeted the Year of the Horse on the lunar calendar.

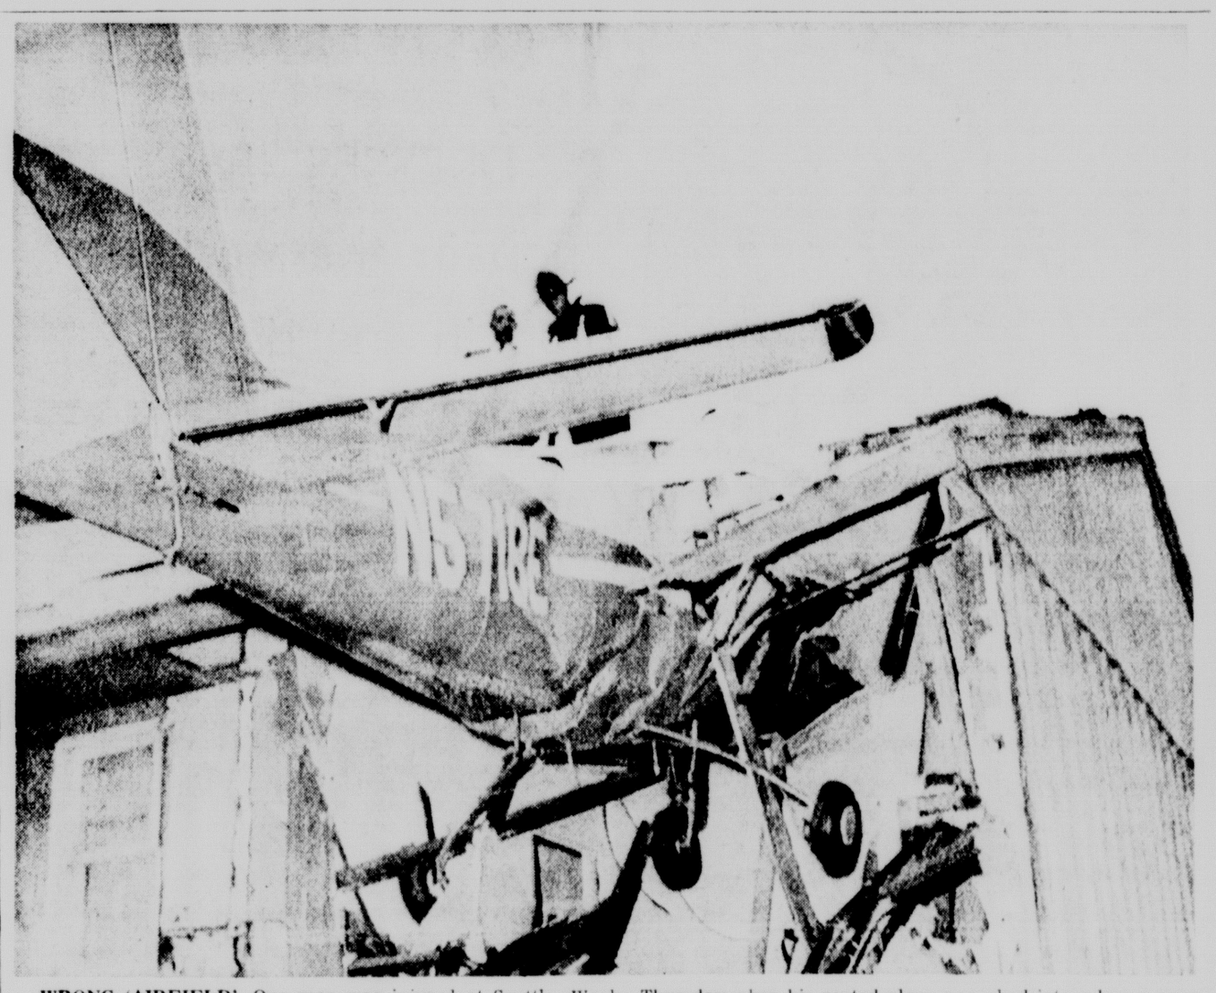

Thirty-four of the Communist attacks were reported against U.S., Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops. This raised questions among military observers whether the Communists really intended to include South Viet Nam's allies in the four-day Viet Cong cease-fire.

When the underground Liberation Front radio broadcast the truce terms three weeks ago, it did not specifically include Allied soldiers but said it hoped they would respect the Vietnamese New Year celebration.

The other 15 attacks, all characterized as minor, were against government forces.

The Koreans reported 400 Viet Cong attacked a platoon of their marines shortly after midnight 10 miles southwest of Tuy Hoa.

2 Ask Return In Party Jobs

Committeemen File May Candidacies

Two incumbents filed petitions today with the County Election Board asking return as 18th Congressional District members of their parties' state central committees in the May 3 primaries.

They are Robert M. Bell of Steubenville, bidding for reelection in the Republican organization, and Miss Esther F. Pinsky, a Bellaire attorney, asking a new term as the woman member of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Another incumbent filed earlier and a fourth is reported circulating petitions.

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana village entered about two months ago for return as the 18th District male member of the Democratic State Central Committee. Mrs. Letha Astry of Salem is the woman member of the GOP committee from the 18th District. She is preparing to be a candidate again.

Bell resides at 376 Summit Ave. He is an employe of the Weirton Steel Co.

Party officials, including county central committeemen, are elected at the primaries, when slates are nominated for the general election. Feb. 2 is the filing deadline for both candidates for political office and those seeking party posts.

Auto Injuries Claim Life Of District Youth

Passenger In Car Dies At Hospital; Driver Also Hurt

David E. Selesztay, 18, of 4109 Adena St., Weirton, died in Ohio Valley General Hospital at Steubenville early today of internal injuries suffered in an auto accident Thursday night.

He was a passenger in a car that struck an embankment and overturned on West Virginia Route 2 at Coketown, south of Weirton.

The driver of the car, George Pigan, 18, of 4213 Brooke St., Weirton, was reported in "satisfactory" condition with back injuries and contusions of the right side.

A second passenger, John M. Nixon, 17, of 326 Homewood Ave., Weirton, was released from the hospital after receiving treatment for a head injury requiring six stitches.

Pigan told Brooke County authorities he was southbound on Route 2 when the car preceding slowed down to turn into the Wheeling Steel Co. entrance. As he attempted to avoid striking the vehicle, his auto spun around, crossed into the northbound lanes of the four - lane stretch and slammed into the embankment on the opposite side of the roadway, and then flipped over.

The fatality was the first for Brooke County this year.

Committees' Chairman Comments

Congress Approval Seen For $12 Billion Viet Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell predicted today that Congress will approve "practically all" of the $12.76 billion in supplemental funds requested by President Johnson to help pay for the Viet Nam war.

The Georgia Democrat commented as Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara prepared to resume testimony on the request to combined sessions of the Senate's Armed Services Committee and Defense Appropriations subcommittee. Russell is chairman of both.

In testimony Thursday, McNamara disclosd plans for "massive application of firepower in Viet Nam and said, "We must be prepared to deploy even more forces" if the Reds expand their operations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans a news conference today as the administration weighs which way to turn next in its drive for settlement of the war.

President Johnson was reported assessing the results of his month-old peace campaign to decide, among other things, whether to resume the bombing of targets in Communist North Viet Nam.

The President is expected to continue U.S. diplomatic efforts. But he spoke somberly Thursday after hearing from Rusk and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, just returned from extensive foreign travels in behalf of Johnson's offer of unconditional discussions to end the war.

Johnson declared that Hanoi has blocked peace hopes so far.

Speaking at Independence, Mo., he said: "What is holding back the peace is the mistaken view on the part of the aggressors that we are going to give up our principles, that we may yield to pressure or abandon our allies, or finally get tired or get out."

"The door of peace must be kept wide open," he said. But "it takes more than one to sign an agreement" and "it seems clear to all that what is holding

Brokaw Backed By GOP For Election Board Post

G. William Brokaw, East Liverpool attorney and former county prosecuting attorney, was recommended Thursday night by the Columbiana County Republican Executive Committee for a four-year term as a member of the county election board, replacing James L. McSweeney, Wellsville attorney.

The committee made the recommendation to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown during a meeting at GOP headquarters in the Wick Building at Lisbon.

Brown makes the appointments as Ohio's chief election officer. But a recommendation from a county party committee is virtually tantamount to appointment. The new term will begin March 1. McSweeney has served eight years.

In similar action nearly two weeks ago, the Democratic Executive Committee recommended the reappointment of Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county chairman of his party and 18th Congressional District member of the State Central Committee.

There are two holdover members of the board with two more years to serve. They are Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, an attorney, and Carl L. Stacey Sr. of Columbiana, who is chairman of the board. Pike is a Republican and Stacey is a Democrat.

Brokaw resides at 1316 Perry Ave. He resumed the practice of law in East Liverpool after leaving the prosecutor's office at the end of 1964. His law office is at 141 W. 6th St.

Brokaw served two four-year terms as prosecutor. Prior to that he served eight years as assistant under former Prosecutor James L. MacDonald, who

Hinted In Manpower Blueprint

U.S. May Avoid Calling Reserves, Guards To Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's blueprint for strengthening the armed forces contains two strong indications that it intends to avoid calling Reservists or National Guardsmen to active duty.

One is Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's statement to Congress that more support-type units must be provided for the regular Army, "inasmuch as it appears desirable to be in a position to deploy additional forces without calling up Reservists."

The other indication lies in the decision to create a new 18,000-man division for the regular Marine Corps.

Would Replace McSweeney

Brokaw Backed By GOP For Election Board Post

G. William Brokaw, East Liverpool attorney and former county prosecuting attorney, was recommended Thursday night by the Columbiana County Republican Executive Committee for a four-year term as a member of the county election board, replacing James L. McSweeney, Wellsville attorney.

The committee made the recommendation to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown during a meeting at GOP headquarters in the Wick Building at Lisbon.

Brown makes the appointments as Ohio's chief election officer. But a recommendation from a county party committee is virtually tantamount to appointment. The new term will begin March 1. McSweeney has served eight years.

In similar action nearly two weeks ago, the Democratic Executive Committee recommended the reappointment of Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county chairman of his party and 18th Congressional District member of the State Central Committee.

There are two holdover members of the board with two more years to serve. They are Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, an attorney, and Carl L. Stacey Sr. of Columbiana, who is chairman of the board. Pike is a Republican and Stacey is a Democrat.

Brokaw resides at 1316 Perry Ave. He resumed the practice of law in East Liverpool after leaving the prosecutor's office at the end of 1964. His law office is at 141 W. 6th St.

Brokaw served two four-year terms as prosecutor. Prior to that he served eight years as assistant under former Prosecutor James L. MacDonald, who

Keys Spikes Reports On Governor Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Former State Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys today squelched reports that he would seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the May primary.

Reached at his office in Elyria, Keys said he considered the race after being approached by several "leading Ohio Democrats" but was advised by his physician not to undertake the rigors of a year-long election campaign.

Keys was injured in an automobile accident in September 1963 and still is undergoing treatment which he said will include "further surgery."

"I must announce with reluctance that I cannot be a candidate at this time," Keys said. He had been mentioned as a possible candidate by former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle who announced Thursday night that he would not seek the nomination to oppose GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The withdrawal of DiSalle and Keys, who now is Lorain County treasurer, further complicated the Democratic gubernatorial

At Meeting Of Health Board

Food Service, Vending Approved

The city's food service and vending programs for 1966 have been placed on the approved list for 1966 by the State Health Department, Jack Bonner, acting city health commissioner, advised the Board of Health at its meeting Thursday night at City Hall.

Bonner was notified by Michael D. Flanagan, sanitarian from the Cuyahoga Falls district office, that the approval is probationary and is based on continued general improvement.

"MUCH REMAINS to be accomplished," Flanagan wrote, adding that the improvement must continue for the program to remain on the approved list.

"The job of improving the food service in East Liverpool will present a problem because of the apathy and indifference of a number of operators. Unfortunately they apparently are not accustomed to enforcement."

The approval was based on several factors, including six inspections since July 1 to 31 food service operations, 11 vending machine locations and one vending machine commissary, Flanagan said.

Bonner suggested the health board adopt the following suggestions made by Flanagan:

Make a complete inspection, outlining in detail violations and recommendations for correction, and give the operator a reasonable time to comply; revisit the operation to determine if corrections have been made; if not, summon the operator to the health department to show cause why his license should not be revoked or suspended; if justified, grant additional time; revisit the establishment again; if corrections are not made, report the results to the health board with the recommendation for suspension or revocation, and after suspension or revocation of his license, notify the operator in a manner approved by the city solicitor.

Flanagan also recommended that the health department institute a program to educate food operators on the reasons for sanitation; have a more adequate plan for approving new and remodeled operations, including approval of new equipment; and an improvement in inspection, especially in regard to proper interpretations.

"I strongly suggest the food sanitarian attend the short course sponsored by the State Health Department the week of May 9," Flanagan said.

THE FOOD service violations noted most often were floor, wall and ceiling construction and cleanliness; ventilation; storage of wastes, and cleaning and bactericidal treatment, he said.

Flanagan said he had observed six improvements in the city program. They were:

1.—When first observed, the program had no method of approval on new and remodeled food service operations, but follow-up visits on Dec. 14-15 showed this had been corrected.

2.—Inspections of food service now are made throughout the year rather than in a confined period as was done previously.

3. — Although unsatisfactory conditions were found in many establishments when visited June 30 through Aug. 18, a trend toward improvement was noted on the follow-up inspection, including reinspection of five of the poorest operations.

4.—Followup inspections have been made on the poorest operations. When observing your records it was noted that as many as six inspections were made by the food sanitarian last year. This was not the case previously.

5.—More adequate inspections have been conducted. Previously little or no violations were listed on the poorer operations.

6.—It should be noted that this approval is based in part on the attitude and desire of the food sanitarian to improve the food service and vending programs.

PRIOR TO receiving Bonner's report, the board re-elected Dr. J. Keith Rugh as chairman and C. Frank Dales as vice chairman. Dales presided at last night's meeting, with all members present.

Miss Selma Ladzinske, health nurse, reported 229 inspections and visitations between Dec. 10 and Jan. 17. Sanitarian Ben Weber said he had made 176 inspections in the same period.

Benner reported he made 227 investigations.

Louella Bevan, registrar of vital statistics, said there were 29 births (13 male and 16 female) and 20 deaths since Jan. 1. The deaths included 13 males, 6 females and 2 children.

Bills totaling $2,264.55, including $1,800 for salaries of four employees, were approved.

The next meeting will be Feb. 17.

Constitution. The amendment contains provisions under which a president may be declared unable to fulfill his duties and for filling the vice presidency when the former incumbent has replaced the president.

The birth control bill would set up a new section in the State Health Department to supervise the local "family planning and child spacing clinics" and to furnish them financial aid and birth control drugs and devices. The clinics would serve the indigent without charge.

A Korean military spokesman said the marines beat off the attack and killed 46 of the Communists.

A guerrilla band also attacked a reconnaissance patrol of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade Thursday night 3 miles northwest of Tuy Hoa, a spokesman said. Armed helicopters came to the aid of the paratroopers, who claimed they killed three Viet Cong. No U.S. casualties were reported.

The clash involving the Koreans was by far the most severe since the start of the holiday truce Thursday.

The marines, who were in the area to protect the rice harvest, at first held their fire but opened up when the Viet Cong came within 30 yards, a Korean spokesman said.

Both sides lobbed hand grenades and exchanged small-arms fire. Reinforcements were called in by the Koreans. They said their casualties were moderate.

American patrols came under a variety of small-arms fire, grenade attacks and other harassments in the first day of the truce, U.S. spokesmen reported. None apparently was serious.

A South Vietnamese spokesman reported that a Viet Cong propaganda unit fired on a government ranger company after it ignored loudspeaker appeals to defect during the Tet holiday. The rangers suffered minor casualties, the spokesman said.

Both sides have mounted propaganda campaigns during the celebration, a sentimental occasion when many Vietnamese return to their homes.

From Hanoi came warnings of harder Communist attacks after the Tet celebration ends Sunday. Hanoi Radio broadcast a New Year's message from the Viet Cong saying: "Let our people march forward to continually strike deadly blows at the U.S. aggressors and disintegrate many puppet troops and win greater victories."

The president of North Viet Nam's fatherland front, Ton Duc Thang, called for "more and still greater successes to bring the national salvation war against U.S. imperialist aggression to early victory."

The custom of exploding firecrackers to chase away demons on the New Year unnerved a truckload of South Koreans coming into Saigon from the battle zones. As their truck entered the capital, a dozen Korean soldiers assumed they were being fired on and shot back into the trees and upper stories of buildings along the street.

Another truckload of U.S. soldiers heard the shooting. Witnesses said the GIs jumped from their vehicle, deployed along the curb and also fired into the trees while holiday crowds scattered for cover and military police converged on the intersection, at a corner of Saigon's old French cemetery.

Some witnesses said the Koreans and the Americans fired at each other. However, no casualties were reported and eventually military authorities untangled the confusion. A little later the Vietnamese resumed their holiday sport of driving off the evil spirits with firecrackers.

Minor skirmishes occurred during the night, a U.S. spokesman said, but he described them as harassments rather than major infractions of the four-day cease-fire proclaimed by the Communists and the 78-hour pause announced by the Allies. He declined to place any blame, saying it was not clear who started the shooting in any specific incident.

He said there were unspecified casualties on both sides including Americans.

The Allies continued air and sea patrols.

U.S. officers regarded as especially critical the hours immediately after the truce when the Communists might launch a big attack to grab the initiative. The Viet Cong mortared an American base at Pleiku, in the central highlands, when the lunar New Year holiday ended last February, killing nine U.S. soldiers and wounding scores of others. President Johnson launched the U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam in retaliation.

As the suspension of air attacks on North Viet Nam entered the 29th day, the United States came under more pressure to continue the moratorium.

Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson told the House of Commons in Ottawa Thursday he hoped the bombing moratorium would continue "as long as possible." He said the suspension and President Johnson's diplomatic moves had brought "no response that you could detect from Hanoi," but he added he still hoped for peace talks.

U.N. Secretary - General U Thant told a news conference in New York that there had been an "undeniable rapprochement between the positions of the parties" in the Viet Nam conflict and that the halt in U.S. raids on the North had improved chances for negotiations.

He called on the belligerents to make proposals for a broadly representative government in South Viet Nam, including the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

At a ceremony honoring former President Harry S. Truman in Independence, Mo., Thursday, Johnson said the Communists had so far rejected his peace bid because they mistakenly believe the United States will surrender its principles, abandon its allies "or get tired and move out." Johnson added: "The door of peace must be kept wide open...The door of aggression must be closed and bolted."

termine the best possible solution."

Frankovitch also spoke briefly, and agreed with Donell that more time is needed for a study.

This apparently indicated the association is willing to have the bill held over until the 1967 session. The two lawyers said the association hasn't conducted a study because it, in effect, hadn't been "prodded" into action before now.

The custom of exploding firecrackers to chase away demons on the New Year unnerved a truckload of South Koreans coming into Saigon from the battle zones. As their truck entered the capital, a dozen Korean soldiers assumed they were being fired on and shot back into the trees and upper stories of buildings along the street.

Another truckload of U.S. soldiers heard the shooting. Witnesses said the GIs jumped from their vehicle, deployed along the curb and also fired into the trees while holiday crowds scattered for cover and military police converged on the intersection, at a corner of Saigon's old French cemetery.

Some witnesses said the Koreans and the Americans fired at each other. However, no casualties were reported and eventually military authorities untangled the confusion. A little later the Vietnamese resumed their holiday sport of driving off the evil spirits with firecrackers.

Minor skirmishes occurred during the night, a U.S. spokesman said, but he described them as harassments rather than major infractions of the four-day cease-fire proclaimed by the Communists and the 78-hour pause announced by the Allies. He declined to place any blame, saying it was not clear who started the shooting in any specific incident.

He said there were unspecified casualties on both sides including Americans.

The Allies continued air and sea patrols.

U.S. officers regarded as especially critical the hours immediately after the truce when the Communists might launch a big attack to grab the initiative. The Viet Cong mortared an American base at Pleiku, in the central highlands, when the lunar New Year holiday ended last February, killing nine U.S. soldiers and wounding scores of others. President Johnson launched the U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam in retaliation.

As the suspension of air attacks on North Viet Nam entered the 29th day, the United States came under more pressure to continue the moratorium.

Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson told the House of Commons in Ottawa Thursday he hoped the bombing moratorium would continue "as long as possible." He said the suspension and President Johnson's diplomatic moves had brought "no response that you could detect from Hanoi," but he added he still hoped for peace talks.

U.N. Secretary - General U Thant told a news conference in New York that there had been an "undeniable rapprochement between the positions of the parties" in the Viet Nam conflict and that the halt in U.S. raids on the North had improved chances for negotiations.

He called on the belligerents to make proposals for a broadly representative government in South Viet Nam, including the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

At a ceremony honoring former President Harry S. Truman in Independence, Mo., Thursday, Johnson said the Communists had so far rejected his peace bid because they mistakenly believe the United States will surrender its principles, abandon its allies "or get tired and move out." Johnson added: "The door of peace must be kept wide open...The door of aggression must be closed and bolted."

Frankovitch also spoke briefly, and agreed with Donell that more time is needed for a study.

This apparently indicated the association is willing to have the bill held over until the 1967 session. The two lawyers said the association hasn't conducted a study because it, in effect, hadn't been "prodded" into action before now.

No Legal Devastation

The U.S. Supreme Court has made a number of rulings in recent years which increase the difficulty of law enforcement officials to convict criminals.

The court, of course, has been zealous about protecting individual rights, as it should be, but in some decisions it has laid down ground rules that make it almost impossible to obtain admissible evidence sufficient to convict a criminal.

CRITICISM from some quarters has not been so much on the basis of depriving an individual of his rights as it has been a question of where the line should be drawn on the reverse pitch: how can the law protect the general public from the criminal?

Thus, those critics have cause to see a ray of hope in this week's 5-2 U.S. Supreme Court decision. In a Cincinnati case, the court refused to upset a conviction on the ground that the prosecutor called the jury's attention to the fact that the defendant did not testify.

Every criminal defendant on trial has the right to testify if he so wishes, but he cannot be forced to do so under the Constitution's Fifth Amendment. In Ohio and five other states, the law had permitted to prosecution to call a jury's attention to the fact that a defendant did not testify, thus creating the suspicion that the defendant's very silence might be a back-handed admission of guilt.

The U.S. Supreme Court last year ruled out this practice. Ohio and the other five states no longer can countenance it.

BUT THIS WEEK'S decision made it clear that the court is not going to act retroactively; i.e., upset earlier convictions for this specific reason.

Justice Potter Stewart, speaking for the court majority, said, "To require all of those states now to void conviction of everyone who did not testify at his trial would have an impact on the administration of their criminal law so devastating as to need no elaboration."

Although the age-old Ohio practice now has been ruled out, the court has made it clear it is not going to undo what Ohio already had done before the practice was banned.

Brightening The Party Image

Republican chairmen from 17 large cities will be in Washington next week to discuss ways and means of making the party image more attractive to voters.

Urban leaders in both major parties know about the vital importance of big-city voting. It controls the electoral votes in every state with a big-city vote.

Presidential elections turn on the pivot of mass voting in cities; hence, the lively interest of Republican chairmen in their party's image, especially its big-city image.

They cannot hope to make any progress, of course, without changing the lopsidedness of the Negro vote. It is the core and backbone of big-city voting. In the 1964 presidential election, 94 per cent of the Negro electorate voted Democratic.

Unless the Republican party can draw Negro voters, it will remain hopelessly handicapped. It will be as hard up for support in the big cities as the Democratic party was during the barren years when Republican big-city bosses sewed up Negro majorities with appeals to remember Abraham Lincoln.

Negroes quit thinking about Lincoln when the New Deal came into power. They began to concentrate on what the federal government was willing to do for them now—not what the Great Emancipator had done for them against the die-hard opposition of the Confederacy. They quit voting resentment against Southern Democrats and started voting gratitude to Northern Democrats.

This is the image-changing problem for big-city Republican chairmen. It is made no easier when Republicans talk about lining up with Southern segregationists like Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who did irreparable injury to the Republican party by joining it in 1964.

It is made no easier by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, who says he will revive his proposed amendment to scuttle legislative apportionment in state legislatures—a direct affront to big-city voters and Negro minorities in the big cities.

There must be times when Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss wonders if his cohorts are with him or against him. He insists he isn't interested in ideological bickers. But some of the people he works with act as if they were interested in nothing else.

Budgeting As You Go

The easy out on Federal budgeting is disclosed in a request for supplemental funds to pay for current costs on the war in Viet Nam. The billions being requested and the hundreds of millions already granted will not show in the budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 and did not show in the budget for the current fiscal year either.

It is as though a corporation had planned for a year ahead but omitted the probable cost of a major lawsuit is was fighting, on the premise it did not know how much the fees or the settlement might be.

Then, with the suit continuing in court and expenses mounting day by day, the corporation might omit any allowance for this item of cost in its plans for the next year, relying on spot settlements to take care of the matter.

In the absence of a large contingency fund, the corporation's books would be woefully out of balance after this kind of ad hoc financing if the bills fell due.

For weeks to come, President Johnson's latest budget message will be examined and re-examined for clues to the government's financial prospects. It is to the administration's advantage to make it appear that everything is in order and all eventualities covered.

But the hard fact of the budget as well as the hard fact of everything in government right now is the war in Viet Nam. To whatever degree the government conceals what the war already has cost and will continue to cost in money confidence and personal sacrifice, it is whistling past the graveyard of its own high hopes.

An Editorial Research Report

Robert G. (Bobby) Baker will be arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court in Washington on tax evasion, fraud and theft charges.

The Baker indictment contains nine counts that carry a maximum penalty of 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines. Even if Baker were convicted on all charges, however, he probably would not be sentenced to serve consecutive jail terms.

Baker had a reputation as a smart youngster even as a Senate page and worked his way rapidly up to Senate Democratic secretary. In his five years in that post, he built up a business and financial amalgam that included motels and restaurants, considerable real estate, a $25,000 home, a vending machine company, a major interest in a profitable mortgage insurance company, and, by his own estimate three years ago, a net worth in excess of $2½ million.

Late in September 1963, he was named principal defendant in a $300,000 civil suit brought by Capitol Vending Co. of Washington. He allegedly assisted the company to get a vending machine franchise in a Virginia defense plant, then persuaded the plant's management to cancel that contract and place the franchises with another vending company in which Baker was a principal owner.

This suit touched off the Senate Rules Committee's probe into Baker's extensive financial dealings. In a report issued July 8, 1964, the committee wound up its investigation by finding that Baker had been "guilty of many gross improperieties" while serving the Senate.

The Baker case caught the public eye in part because, as Senate majority secretary, Baker had been intimately associated with Lyndon B. Johnson when he was Senate majority leader and later vice president. Newspapers were full of tales of lavish partying at the Carrousel Motel at Ocean City, Md.—which, incidentally, still proudly identifies itself in billboards along the Maryland littoral as "Bobby Baker's."

Allegations, never subsequently proved, linked Baker with call girls in the course of his alleged wire-pulling. Testimony before the Senate committee did tend to associate Baker with gambling interests in Las Vegas, Miami, and the Dominican Republic, and with a meat processor in Haiti, among others.

Many men still in the Senate will sigh profoundly when the Baker case is finally disposed of. At times the waves of mud have flapped dangerously high.

Third Dimension

By Truman Twill

There are three ways to do a job — the right way, the wrong way and the way the job gets done, which is a mixture of the other two ways.

There are three aspects to every situation — the way it looks to you, the way it looks to the person who disagrees with you and the way it really is.

There are three descriptions of everything that can be described — mine, yours and the blend of our warped views.

There are three interpretations of law — the defendant's, the plaintiff's and the one hammered out in a drawn-out process of judgment and appeal.

There are three standards of human conduct —the ideal, the depraved and the way people behave year in and year out.

There are three versions of the truth — my version, your version and the objective version of a third party who finally steps between us to keep us from killing each other in a dispute over the truth.

There are three reports about disputes — the report from our side, in which we are right, the report from the other side, which shows he is right, and the suppressed reports of objective observers which show both sides are wrong.

There are three patterns of human thinking —stand pat and turn down everything, surge forward and the milling around the rest of us do because we want to stand pat on some things and put some other things behind us.

There are three ways to dress — stylishly, unstylishly and something new, something old and who cares if the lapels are too wide?

There are three ways to talk — too loud, too soft and just right.

There are three ways to eat — too much, too little and just enough.

There are three ways to drink — too heavily, too lightly and ah there, that hit the spot.

But of all third dimensional propositions put before us, the one most important to keep track of in wartime is news about the fighting.

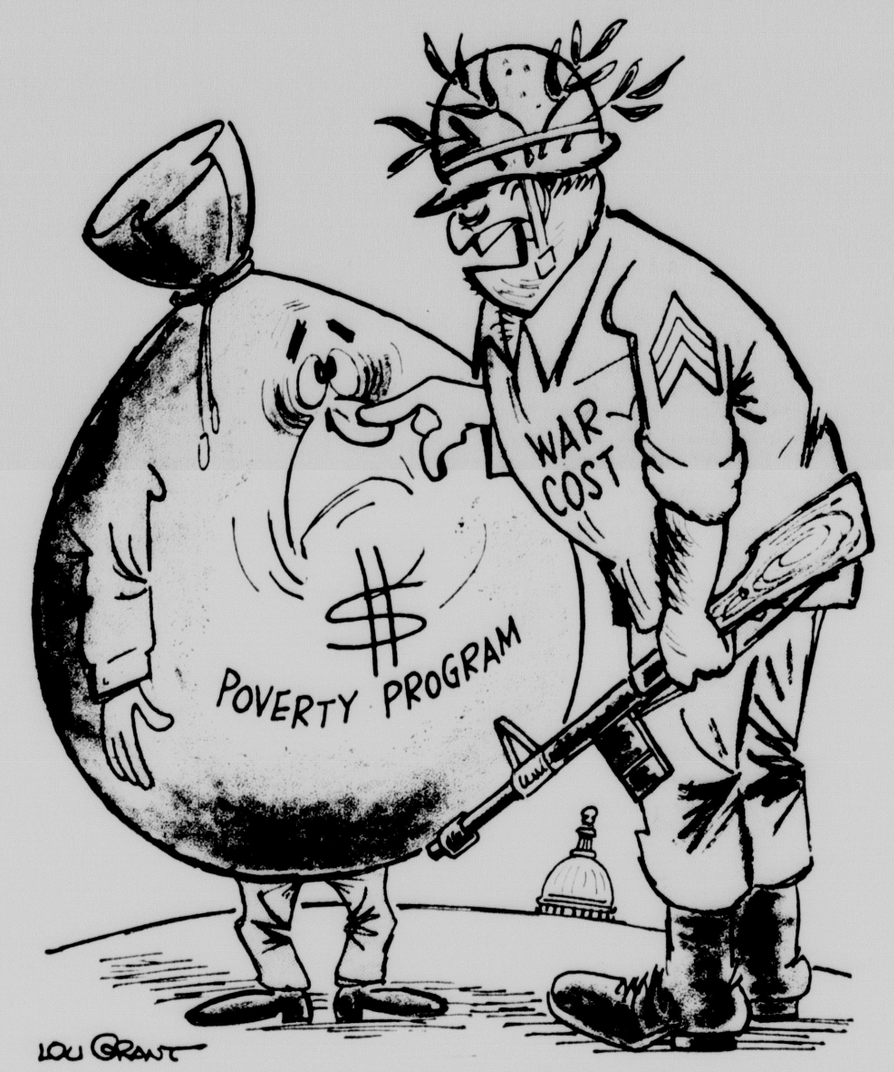

There are three kinds.

Our side — the right side — always says the other side is vicious and deserves the heavy losses being sustained.

The other side — the bad side — always says our side is ruthless and virtue will prevail.

And the third dimensional view is that both sides are losing and if their war chiefs ran out of manpower and had to settle things personally they would shake hands and forget it because it can't be settled by war anyway.

Secret Duty Assigned To Reuther

By Victor Riesel

FBI agents now have fully investigated Walter Reuther.

This means he's wanted for something — but for what?

Victor Riesel

Late last November, J. Edgar Hoover's men began dropping in on a handful of knowledgeables who had followed the "red-head's" career from the very first sit-in. As the inquiry spread, the buzzing spread.

Some of Reuther's devoted friends, to whom the FBI is a pox, cried out in alarm. They honor their friend and champion, so their concern is understandable.

However, they could have saved themselves their insomnia. It was the White House which ordered the name-check on Reuther. Someone there wanted the Auto Union chief for a highly-placed special assignment. He was to have access to classified information, involving the security of the nation.

So Reuther, along with judges, attorneys general, military men and even Central Intelligence Agency wraiths, was treated no differently than Hubert Humphrey or Ambassador Arthur Goldberg.

It was, and is, President Johnson who wants to use Reuther in many areas. The name-check came after a decision to make the Detroiter a high-policy consultant to the State Department.

HE PASSED THE TEST. He is an adviser. He has some cloak and dagger ideas. But that no longer is the province of the FBI. From now on, "Walter" is one of the rarefied elements with which the CIA will have to conjure.

That's astro-political stuff. Much more earthy is the fact that President Johnson likes him, trusts him and believes he can be something of value on the crackling international front. The feeling is mutual. This is only the beginning — though the men have been friends since 1948.

Both the President of the U.S. and the President of the United Auto Workers realize the red-head has an image problem.

Many remember the militant young man of the '30s, who so efficiently marched his followers into auto plants, locked them in, sat them down and arranged for their logistics, that an Army major assigned to patrol that particular auto city admiringly urged Reuther to join the War Department.

FACT IS THAT REUTHER is most eager to work with the President on the poverty front at home and the propaganda and diplomatic fronts abroad.

There is, for example, confidential word from inside the three-man labor bloc in the President's task force on automation that Reuther is taking the most conservative position in the group.

The labor contingent has objected to the majority's report that automation is not a curse and can be bested by stimulating a prosperous economy, so there will be jobs for all despite that old-devil computer.

Two members of the labor contingent, Al Hayes, former president of the militant Machinists and Joe Beirne, head of the Communications Workers of America, sometime ago decided to attack this happier viewpoint and urge a shorter work-week as partial answer to the "threat" of the electronic brain. But Reuther has been reluctant to go along.

FOR REUTHER TO OBJECT, even behind closed doors, to a shorter work-week is like Lyndon Johnson refusing to permit the U.S. to accept a billion dollar repayment in gold from Gen. de Gaulle to even the gold outflow.

But Reuther has fought such a suggestion. President Johnson is opposed to the work-week cut.

Those who have observed Reuther these last few years have been surprised to see him turn from being the loyal opposition to being just plain loyal to Mr. Johnson.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We, members of the East Liverpool Chapter of the Ohio Federated Humane Societies, have gone on record against Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson and her action to "erase" pigeons in the city.

In Council last Monday night, Mrs. Wilson claimed that pigeons are known carriers of encephalitis, psittacosis, typhoid fever and dysentery. In the history of East Liverpool, there never has been one case of the above diseases traced to pigeons.

The same thing has been claimed about parrots and parakeets. Some people make the same statement about cats and dogs. It depends on what your pet peeve is. She wants to amend the city ordinance that makes it illegal to discharge firearms within the city limits in order that the pigeons can be eradicated.

Others want to eradicate cats or dogs. Why should this be done when it is illegal to shoot a rat, and they are really the pests that spread filth and disease. If you make it legal to shoot pigeons in the city, you will have all kinds of people discharging firearms, endangering people and destroying property by wild shooting.

If Mrs. Wilson really wants to do something for the City of East Liverpool, there are a lot more important things than "erasing" the pigeons. What about the old city - owned buildings and the other old fire - traps on 2nd St.? They are infested with disease - carrying rats and filth and they are a menace to life and the appearance of the city.

What about a dog pound with water and heat and the facilities to keep it sanitary, instead of a stall in a three - car garage? What about those awful rough streets that need fixed? What about the streets that need stop signs for safety? What about the high curbs that keep you from opening your car door after you are parked?

Call For Truth

By David Lawrence

Sen. Williams Offers Facts, Figures

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who has uncovered many irregularities in government is a man of rare courage in politics. He now has undertaken in a speech to the Senate to prove that the administration has resorted to sleight-of-hand tactics in the figures given to the public about the budget.

David Lawrence

The Delaware senator calls attention to the fact that President Johnson in his State of the Union Message asked for legislation to provide "truth in packaging" and "truth in lending." Mr. Williams says that what is even more necessary is "truth in government."

The American people perhaps do not understand as yet that the federal government is collecting this year from corporations much of what it would normally have collected next year, and that, under an accelerated program, the government for at least three years will be collecting more than 100 per cent of the taxes actually owed for a given calendar year by corporations.

The senator says that the withholding-tax acceleration for individuals would bring in $400 million in the next fiscal year. He adds:

"Stated otherwise, this is the same as borrowing on next week's salary to pay this week's grocery bills—and that is exactly what it is. . . .

"I say that a program of truth in government is needed. The American taxpayers have a right to know whether the labels being put on the government's financial package are accurate, true descriptions, because based on the Treasury Department's own figures, the estimated deficit for fiscal 1967 is not $1.8 billion, but $9.2 billion. . . .

"IN THE PRESIDENT'S message of last Wednesday night a further acceleration of the corporate tax payments was recommended. If Congress accedes to the President's request the government will collect in fiscal 1967 an additional $3.2 billion in taxes from the corporations. This isn't counting increased taxes to be received from the reinstated telephone and automobile taxes. I'm speaking now only of the accelerated corporation taxes under the President's request. It would move forward $1 billion extra of the corporate taxes into fiscal 1966 and into fiscal 1967, another $3.2 billion."

The Delaware senator also points out that the government, by taking away a certain amount of the content of silver in coinage, will be able to credit itself with receipt of $2.5 billion in the next fiscal year over and above what it would have received if the silver had not been commandeered by the government. This extra money, he says, is of course a non-recurring revenue, but is being included as though it were additional or continuing revenue.

SEN. WILLIAMS also reveals that the Commodity Credit Corporation, which handles agricultural commodities, owes the United States government more than $12 billion, but has assets much less and shows a deficit of $5.9 billion. He argues that this actual loss "has not been faced by the administration in its budgetary requests," and that "a truth-in-government policy would correct this misleading information."

Summing up the present financial status of the federal government, Mr. Williams declares:

"The deficits of the last five years alone have exceeded the total cost of all government expenditures during the five years between 1914 and 1919, a period which includes the total cost of World War I."

Sen. Williams insists, moreover, that trust-fund receipts "are in no way to be confused with the administrative budget," and that to quote such figures as an indication of a balanced budget "is misleading and does not represent truth in government."

SEN. AIKEN of Vermont, one of the "liberal" Republicans, commented later that Sen. Williams' speech would probably have been more effective as the Republican State of the Union Message than what was given over television on Monday, Jan. 17, as the party's response to the President's televised broadcast.

Strangely enough, what was said by Sen. Williams in his speech to the Senate got very little attention in the press and wasn't the subject of any extensive broadcasts on the air anywhere.

For weeks to come, President Johnson's latest budget message will be examined and re-examined for clues to the government's financial prospects. It is to the administration's advantage to make it appear that everything is in order and all eventualities covered.

But the hard fact of the budget as well as the hard fact of everything in government right now is the war in Viet Nam. To whatever degree the government conceals what the war already has cost and will continue to cost in money confidence and personal sacrifice, it is whistling past the graveyard of its own high hopes.

An Editorial Research Report

Robert G. (Bobby) Baker will be arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court in Washington on tax evasion, fraud and theft charges.

The Baker indictment contains nine counts that carry a maximum penalty of 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines. Even if Baker were convicted on all charges, however, he probably would not be sentenced to serve consecutive jail terms.

Baker had a reputation as a smart youngster even as a Senate page and worked his way rapidly up to Senate Democratic secretary. In his five years in that post, he built up a business and financial amalgam that included motels and restaurants, considerable real estate, a $25,000 home, a vending machine company, a major interest in a profitable mortgage insurance company, and, by his own estimate three years ago, a net worth in excess of $2½ million.

Late in September 1963, he was named principal defendant in a $300,000 civil suit brought by Capitol Vending Co. of Washington. He allegedly assisted the company to get a vending machine franchise in a Virginia defense plant, then persuaded the plant's management to cancel that contract and place the franchises with another vending company in which Baker was a principal owner.

This suit touched off the Senate Rules Committee's probe into Baker's extensive financial dealings. In a report issued July 8, 1964, the committee wound up its investigation by finding that Baker had been "guilty of many gross improprieties" while serving the Senate.

The Baker case caught the public eye in part because, as Senate majority secretary, Baker had been intimately associated with Lyndon B. Johnson when he was Senate majority leader and later vice president. Newspapers were full of tales of lavish partying at the Carrousel Motel at Ocean City, Md.—which, incidentally, still proudly identifies itself in billboards along the Maryland littoral as "Bobby Baker's."

Allegations, never subsequently proved, linked Baker with call girls in the course of his alleged wire-pulling. Testimony before the Senate committee did tend to associate Baker with gambling interests in Las Vegas, Miami, and the Dominican Republic, and with a meat processor in Haiti, among others.

Many men still in the Senate will sigh profoundly when the Baker case is finally disposed of. At times the waves of mud have flapped dangerously high.

Third Dimension

By Truman Twill

There are three ways to do a job — the right way, the wrong way and the way the job gets done, which is a mixture of the other two ways.

There are three aspects to every situation — the way it looks to you, the way it looks to the person who disagrees with you and the way it really is.

There are three descriptions of everything that can be described — mine, yours and the blend of our warped views.

There are three interpretations of law — the defendant's, the plaintiff's and the one hammered out in a drawn-out process of judgment and appeal.

There are three standards of human conduct —the ideal, the depraved and the way people behave year in and year out.

There are three versions of the truth — my version, your version and the objective version of a third party who finally steps between us to keep us from killing each other in a dispute over the truth.

There are three reports about disputes — the report from our side, in which we are right, the report from the other side, which shows he is right, and the suppressed reports of objective observers which show both sides are wrong.

There are three patterns of human thinking —stand pat and turn down everything, surge forward and the milling around the rest of us do because we want to stand pat on some things and put some other things behind us.

There are three ways to dress — stylishly, unstylishly and something new, something old and who cares if the lapels are too wide?

There are three ways to talk — too loud, too soft and just right.

There are three ways to eat — too much, too little and just enough.

There are three ways to drink — too heavily, too lightly and ah there, that hit the spot.

But of all third dimensional propositions put before us, the one most important to keep track of in wartime is news about the fighting.

There are three kinds.

Our side — the right side — always says the other side is vicious and deserves the heavy losses being sustained.

The other side — the bad side — always says our side is ruthless and virtue will prevail.

And the third dimensional view is that both sides are losing and if their war chiefs ran out of manpower and had to settle things personally they would shake hands and forget it because it can't be settled by war anyway.

Secret Duty Assigned To Reuther

By Victor Riesel

FBI agents now have fully investigated Walter Reuther.

This means he's wanted for something — but for what?

Victor Riesel

Late last November, J. Edgar Hoover's men began dropping in on a handful of knowledgeables who had followed the "red-head's" career from the very first sit-in. As the inquiry spread, the buzzing spread.

Some of Reuther's devoted friends, to whom the FBI is a pox, cried out in alarm. They honor their friend and champion, so their concern is understandable.

However, they could have saved themselves their insomnia. It was the White House which ordered the name-check on Reuther. Someone there wanted the Auto Union chief for a highly-placed special assignment. He was to have access to classified information, involving the security of the nation.

So Reuther, along with judges, attorneys general, military men and even Central Intelligence Agency wraiths, was treated no differently than Hubert Humphrey or Ambassador Arthur Goldberg.

It was, and is, President Johnson who wants to use Reuther in many areas. The name-check came after a decision to make the Detroiter a high-policy consultant to the State Department.

HE PASSED THE TEST. He is an adviser. He has some cloak and dagger ideas. But that no longer is the province of the FBI. From now on, "Walter" is one of the rarefied elements with which the CIA will have to conjure.

That's astro-political stuff. Much more earthy is the fact that President Johnson likes him, trusts him and believes he can be something of value on the crackling international front. The feeling is mutual. This is only the beginning — though the men have been friends since 1948.

Both the President of the U.S. and the President of the United Auto Workers realize the red-head has an image problem.

Many remember the militant young man of the '30s, who so efficiently marched his followers into auto plants, locked them in, sat them down and arranged for their logistics, that an Army major assigned to patrol that particular auto city admiringly urged Reuther to join the War Department.

FACT IS THAT REUTHER is most eager to work with the President on the poverty front at home and the propaganda and diplomatic fronts abroad.

There is, for example, confidential word from inside the three-man labor bloc in the President's task force on automation that Reuther is taking the most conservative position in the group.

The labor contingent has objected to the majority's report that automation is not a curse and can be bested by stimulating a prosperous economy, so there will be jobs for all despite that old-devil computer.

Two members of the labor contingent, Al Hayes, former president of the militant Machinists and Joe Beirne, head of the Communications Workers of America, sometime ago decided to attack this happier viewpoint and urge a shorter work-week as partial answer to the "threat" of the electronic brain. But Reuther has been reluctant to go along.

FOR REUTHER TO OBJECT, even behind closed doors, to a shorter work-week is like Lyndon Johnson refusing to permit the U.S. to accept a billion dollar repayment in gold from Gen. de Gaulle to even the gold outflow.

But Reuther has fought such a suggestion. President Johnson is opposed to the work-week cut.

Those who have observed Reuther these last few years have been surprised to see him turn from being the loyal opposition to being just plain loyal to Mr. Johnson.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We, members of the East Liverpool Chapter of the Ohio Federated Humane Societies, have gone on record against Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson and her action to "erase" pigeons in the city.

In Council last Monday night, Mrs. Wilson claimed that pigeons are known carriers of encephalitis, psittacosis, typhoid fever and dysentery. In the history of East Liverpool, there never has been one case of the above diseases traced to pigeons.

The same thing has been claimed about parrots and parakeets. Some people make the same statement about cats and dogs. It depends on what your pet peeve is. She wants to amend the city ordinance that makes it illegal to discharge firearms within the city limits in order that the pigeons can be eradicated.

Others want to eradicate cats or dogs. Why should this be done when it is illegal to shoot a rat, and they are really the pests that spread filth and disease. If you make it legal to shoot pigeons in the city, you will have all kinds of people discharging firearms, endangering people and destroying property by wild shooting.

If Mrs. Wilson really wants to do something for the City of East Liverpool, there are a lot more important things than "erasing" the pigeons. What about the old city - owned buildings and the other old fire - traps on 2nd St.? They are infested with disease - carrying rats and filth and they are a menace to life and the appearance of the city.

What about a dog pound with water and heat and the facilities to keep it sanitary, instead of a stall in a three - car garage? What about those awful rough streets that need fixed? What about the streets that need stop signs for safety? What about the high curbs that keep you from opening your car door after you are parked?

Call For Truth

By David Lawrence

Sen. Williams Offers Facts, Figures

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who has uncovered many irregularities in government is a man of rare courage in politics. He now has undertaken in a speech to the Senate to prove that the administration has resorted to sleight-of-hand tactics in the figures given to the public about the budget.

David Lawrence

The Delaware senator calls attention to the fact that President Johnson in his State of the Union Message asked for legislation to provide "truth in packaging" and "truth in lending." Mr. Williams says that what is even more necessary is "truth in government."

The American people perhaps do not understand as yet that the federal government is collecting this year from corporations much of what it would normally have collected next year, and that, under an accelerated program, the government for at least three years will be collecting more than 100 per cent of the taxes actually owed for a given calendar year by corporations.

The senator says that the withholding-tax acceleration for individuals would bring in $400 million in the next fiscal year. He adds:

"Stated otherwise, this is the same as borrowing on next week's salary to pay this week's grocery bills—and that is exactly what it is. . . .

"I say that a program of truth in government is needed. The American taxpayers have a right to know whether the labels being put on the government's financial package are accurate, true descriptions, because based on the Treasury Department's own figures, the estimated deficit for fiscal 1967 is not $1.8 billion, but $9.2 billion. . . .

"IN THE PRESIDENT'S message of last Wednesday night a further acceleration of the corporate tax payments was recommended. If Congress accedes to the President's request the government will collect in fiscal 1967 an additional $3.2 billion in taxes from the corporations. This isn't counting increased taxes to be received from the reinstated telephone and automobile taxes. I'm speaking now only of the accelerated corporation taxes under the President's request. It would move forward $1 billion extra of the corporate taxes into fiscal 1966 and into fiscal 1967, another $3.2 billion."

The Delaware senator also points out that the government, by taking away a certain amount of the content of silver in coinage, will be able to credit itself with receipt of $2.5 billion in the next fiscal year over and above what it would have received if the silver had not been commandeered by the government. This extra money, he says, is of course a non-recurring revenue, but is being included as though it were additional or continuing revenue.

SEN. WILLIAMS also reveals that the Commodity Credit Corporation, which handles agricultural commodities, owes the United States government more than $12 billion, but has assets much less and shows a deficit of $5.9 billion. He argues that this actual loss "has not been faced by the administration in its budgetary requests," and that "a truth-in-government policy would correct this misleading information."

Summing up the present financial status of the federal government, Mr. Williams declares:

"The deficits of the last five years alone have exceeded the total cost of all government expenditures during the five years between 1914 and 1919, a period which includes the total cost of World War I."

Sen. Williams insists, moreover, that trust-fund receipts "are in no way to be confused with the administrative budget," and that to quote such figures as an indication of a balanced budget "is misleading and does not represent truth in government."

SEN. AIKEN of Vermont, one of the "liberal" Republicans, commented later that Sen. Williams' speech would probably have been more effective as the Republican State of the Union Message than what was given over television on Monday, Jan. 17, as the party's response to the President's televised broadcast.

Strangely enough, what was said by Sen. Williams in his speech to the Senate got very little attention in the press and wasn't the subject of any extensive broadcasts on the air anywhere.

dilemma which still is far in the air with a Feb. 2 filing deadline approaching.

DiSalle held a news conference today at which he expanded on his withdrawal announcement and heaped praise on Keys as a man "eminently qualified." He said at the time, however, that he was not sure Keys would decide to run.

The former governor declined to state a definite choice "before the filing deadline" but said "I will have a man in the primary."

Keys likewise declined to name a candidate but said "several good men have taken themselves out of the picture who could reconsider.

"I am certain the Democrats will come up with a strong candidate," he said.

Today's developments narrowed the field of Democratic prospects and gave an indication that State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain, the only announced candidate but an unknown statewide, may wind up with the nomination many observers felt he never could win.

DiSalle described McIlwain as "personable" and a "good trial lawyer who presents himself well" but said his candidacy would "present a problem because he is not known statewide."

Others regarded as possibilities for the race but who profess other ambitions include State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman, State Sen. Frazier Reams of Toledo, Former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland, and U. S. Rep. Robert E. Sweeney, Cleveland.

Moro Resigns Italian Post As Premier

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The premier's decision to step down was taken after a meeting with his Cabinet today.

The resignation plunges this Atlantic Alliance nation into unexpected political crisis. Only a few weeks ago it had appeared that Moro probably would be able to hold his coalition government together until the next national parliamentary elections in 1967.

What made Moro's position untenable was a demand from the partners in his Christian Democrat coalition—the Socialists, Democratc Socialists and Republicans—that he resign because of the legislative defeat.

The nursery school issue on which Moro's government took a beating was by secret ballot. Every Rome newspaper agreed that "snipers" within Moro's own party voted against him under cover of secrecy.

There have been increasing signs that his government was running into trouble since fiery Amintore Fanfani resigned as foreign minister Dec. 28 after he came home from New York, where he had served as president of the U.N. General Assembly.

Fanfani has opposed Moro in the past. Fanfani leads a strong left-wing element in the Christian Democrat party, and has had considerable support of the Socialist parties in the coalition.

dilemma which still is far in the air with a Feb. 2 filing deadline approaching.

DiSalle held a news conference today at which he expanded on his withdrawal announcement and heaped praise on Keys as a man "eminently qualified." He said at the time, however, that he was not sure Keys would decide to run.

The former governor declined to state a definite choice "before the filing deadline" but said "I will have a man in the primary."

Keys likewise declined to name a candidate but said "several good men have taken themselves out of the picture who could reconsider.

"I am certain the Democrats will come up with a strong candidate," he said.

Today's developments narrowed the field of Democratic prospects and gave an indication that State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain, the only announced candidate but an unknown statewide, may wind up with the nomination many observers felt he never could win.

DiSalle described McIlwain as "personable" and a "good trial lawyer who presents himself well" but said his candidacy would "present a problem because he is not known statewide."

Others regarded as possibilities for the race but who profess other ambitions include State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman, State Sen. Frazier Reams of Toledo, Former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland, and U. S. Rep. Robert E. Sweeney, Cleveland.

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The premier's decision to step down was taken after a meeting with his Cabinet today.

The resignation plunges this Atlantic Alliance nation into unexpected political crisis. Only a few weeks ago it had appeared that Moro probably would be able to hold his coalition government together until the next national parliamentary elections in 1967.

What made Moro's position untenable was a demand from the partners in his Christian Democrat coalition—the Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans—that he resign because of the legislative defeat.

The nursery school issue on which Moro's government took a beating was by secret ballot. Every Rome newspaper agreed that "snipers" within Moro's own party voted against him under cover of secrecy.

There have been increasing signs that his government was running into trouble since fiery Amintore Fanfani resigned as foreign minister Dec. 28 after he came home from New York, where he had served as president of the U.N. General Assembly.

Fanfani has opposed Moro in the past. Fanfani leads a strong left-wing element in the Christian Democrat party, and has had considerable support of the Socialist parties in the coalition.

Chertoff Rejects Diabetes As Defense In Traffic Case

The fact a motorist suffers from diabetes and is highly susceptible to alcohol is no defense in a charge of drunken driving in which he proves "a menace" to others on the streets, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ruled today.

Kenneth Brown, 49, of 929 Bank St. was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and given a 90-day suspension of his driver's license on a charge filed by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes after Brown's car hit a parked auto Tuesday night on Pennsylvania Ave. He pleaded "no contest," in effect admitting the facts and throwing himself on the mercy of the court.

The judge heard sworn testimony from both the officer and the defendant before pronouncing sentence. The officer testified Brown appeared to be under the influence of alcohol, but said he has learned since that the defendant suffers from diabetes.

"I realize he could have suffered a diabetic shock after a few drinks," the officer said. "He told me had had consumed a couple of beers."

Brown admitted consuming "three or four" double headers of whisky and three glasses of beer in an East End tavern.

"I came out and got in my car and that's all I know," he said. "I don't remember hitting any car."

Brown said he has been a diabetic for six or seven years. He said he quit drinking about four years ago. He said his physician advised him strongly against drinking and also placed him on a strict diet.

"Any man who says he had three or four double headers and three beers and then blacked out does not belong behind the wheel of a car," the judge commented. "You were a menace on the streets. I will not have it. I have a duty to protect the people of East Liverpool in their right to use the streets without fear of being killed or injured."

"You have my sympathy because of your condition, but I am not going to give you a medal!" the judge added. He pointed out Brown had consumed alcohol despite warnings from his doctor.

Another driver was fined and a third forfeited.

Robert Berdine of Riverview St. was fined $10 and costs, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto with a faulty muffler. Berdine was cited at 1:45 p.m. Thursday on E. 6th St. The judge said he showed leniency after learning Berdine's wife had just given birth to a baby.

David McCasland of Toronto forfeited a $17.50 appearance bond on a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 30. He was cited Jan. 14 by the State Highway Patrol.

Area Drivers Are Injured In Two Mishaps

An Industry man was hospitalized and a Vanport man was injured in separate accidents early today on Route 68 and in Midland.

Patrick McGeehan, 25, of 1209 Ohio View Dr., Industry, is in "fairly good" condition at Rochester General Hospital with lacerations of the face and left knee and contusions of the chest in the reported accident on Route 68.

McGeehan was admitted at 3:20 a. m. and told the hospital he was involved in an accident on Route 68.

Industry Police Chief Arthur Hendershot said he investigated but was unable to locate the auto.

Clarence Fraser, 40, of Vanport was treated at the hospital earlier for injuries he received in an accident on Midland Ave. which he blamed on a coughing spell.

Fraser told the hospital he was driving at Midland Ave. and 11th St. at 12:50 a. m. when he began coughing and decided to pull off the road. His car hit a parked auto and a mail box.

Midland police said they did not know the owner of the parked vehicle or the mail box.

Dog Licenses Decline From 1965, Bell Says

LISBON — There were 11,100 Columbiana County dog licenses sold up to the deadline Thursday — a decrease from the 16,924 sold in 1965 — County Auditor Kenneth Bell reports.

A $1 penalty now will be paid by anyone obtaining a dog license and a $5 fine for a kennel license. Bell reminded owners all dogs older than three months must be registered.

He said there has been some confusion on the age requirement, because West Virginia and Pennsylvania do not require licenses until dogs are six months old.

up peace in the world today is not the United States of America."

U.S. diplomats generally rated Johnson's peace drive as a success in persuading non-Communist governments of a U.S. desire for an end to the fighting in Southeast Asia. Some figured that the U.S. diplomatic drive begun after the Christmas eve bombing halt has started a process of rethinking by Communist leaders which will take a while longer.

Under this theory, prolonging the bombing lull would give the Red strategists better opportunity to work out a more conciliatory position. Against this, however, were arguments that Hanoi was not going to soften under any type of diplomatic prodding and delaying the air strikes further would only help her militarily.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson expressed the hope that the United States will continue its suspension in bombings.

Chertoff Rejects Diabetes As Defense In Traffic Case

The fact a motorist suffers from diabetes and is highly susceptible to alcohol is no defense in a charge of drunken driving in which he proves "a menace" to others on the streets, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ruled today.

Kenneth Brown, 49, of 929 Bank St. was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and given a 90-day suspension of his driver's license on a charge filed by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes after Brown's car hit a parked auto Tuesday night on Pennsylvania Ave. He pleaded "no contest," in effect admitting the facts and throwing himself on the mercy of the court.

The judge heard sworn testimony from both the officer and the defendant before pronouncing sentence. The officer testified Brown appeared to be under the influence of alcohol, but said he has learned since that the defendant suffers from diabetes.

"I realize he could have suffered a diabetic shock after a few drinks," the officer said. "He told me had had consumed a couple of beers."

Brown admitted consuming "three or four" double headers of whisky and three glasses of beer in an East End tavern.

"I came out and got in my car and that's all I know," he said. "I don't remember hitting any car."

Brown said he has been a diabetic for six or seven years. He said he quit drinking about four years ago. He said his physician advised him strongly against drinking and also placed him on a strict diet.

"Any man who says he had three or four double headers and three beers and then blacked out does not belong behind the wheel of a car," the judge commented. "You were a menace on the streets. I will not have it. I have a duty to protect the people of East Liverpool in their right to use the streets without fear of being killed or injured."

"You have my sympathy because of your condition, but I am not going to give you a medal!" the judge added. He pointed out Brown had consumed alcohol despite warnings from his doctor.

Another driver was fined and a third forfeited.

Robert Berdine of Riverview St. was fined $10 and costs, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto with a faulty muffler. Berdine was cited at 1:45 p.m. Thursday on E. 6th St. The judge said he showed leniency after learning Berdine's wife had just given birth to a baby.

David McCasland of Toronto forfeited a $17.50 appearance bond on a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 30. He was cited Jan. 14 by the State Highway Patrol.

Dog Licenses Decline From 1965, Bell Says

LISBON — There were 11,100 Columbiana County dog licenses sold up to the deadline Thursday — a decrease from the 16,924 sold in 1965 — County Auditor Kenneth Bell reports.

A $1 penalty now will be paid by anyone obtaining a dog license and a $5 fine for a kennel license. Bell reminded owners all dogs older than three months must be registered.

He said there has been some confusion on the age requirement, because West Virginia and Pennsylvania do not require licenses until dogs are six months old.

LISBON — Dr. Wade Bacon, Lisbon physician and member of the Lisbon Board of education, is attending a meeting of the trustees of the Ohio School Boards Association today at Columbus.

Area Drivers Are Injured In Two Mishaps

An Industry man was hospitalized and a Vanport man was injured in separate accidents early today on Route 68 and in Midland.

Patrick McGeehan, 25, of 1209 Ohio View Dr., Industry, is in "fairly good" condition at Rochester General Hospital with lacerations of the face and left knee and contusions of the chest in the reported accident on Route 68.

McGeehan was admitted at 3:20 a.m. and told the hospital he was involved in an accident on Route 68.

Industry Police Chief Arthur Hendershot said he investigated but was unable to locate the auto.

Clarence Fraser, 40, of Vanport was treated at the hospital earlier for injuries he received in an accident on Midland Ave. which he blamed on a coughing spell.

Fraser told the hospital he was driving at Midland Ave. and 11th St. at 12:50 a.m. when he began coughing and decided to pull off the road. His car hit a parked auto and a mail box.

Midland police said they did not know the owner of the parked vehicle or the mail box.

up peace in the world today is not the United States of America."

U.S. diplomats generally rated Johnson's peace drive as a success in persuading non-Communist governments of a U.S. desire for an end to the fighting in Southeast Asia. Some figured that the U.S. diplomatic drive begun after the Christmas eve bombing halt has started a process of rethinking by Communist leaders which will take a while longer.

Under this theory, prolonging the bombing lull would give the Red strategists better opportunity to work out a more conciliatory position. Against this, however, were arguments that Hanoi was not going to soften under any type of diplomatic prodding and delaying the air strikes further would only help her militarily.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson expressed the hope that the United States will continue its suspension in bombings.

Endorse GOP Primary Ticket

Ohio's Republicans Eye Democrat Developments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Republican organization sat back today to eye Democratic developments after having an easy time Thursday endorsing a state ticket for the GOP May primary.

The Republican Policy Committee merely tabbed all incumbents—the GOP holds all the top elective state offices—then turned to thornier discussions of candidates for the legislature from urban counties.

The committee session passed without the awaited and almost certain announcement by Gov. James A. Rhodes that he will seek nomination to be re-elected.

Thus Rhodes out-waited former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, the Democrat he routed from office in the 1962 election, in declaring his intentions. DiSalle finally said Thursday night he won't run.

Republican State Chairman John S. Andrews, asked about Rhodes' delay, smiling said: "He has been terribly busy."

"Jim has a very broad base of appeal," commented Andrews. "I do believe he has attracted support in those areas in which Democrats usually run much stronger than Republicans."

DiSalle later admitted any Democratic candidate will have "an uphill fight" against the governor.

Candidates for the May 3 primary have until Feb. 2 to get their nominating petitions circulate, a required number of signatures from sufficient counties, and filed with the secretary of state.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe filed his petitions Thursday, with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

The policy committee, which recommends to the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, endorsed Rhodes, Saxbe, State Auditor Roger Cloud, Ted Brown, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Supreme Court Judge Paul W. Brown and Supreme Court Judge Louis J. Schneider for re-election.

Also recommended was State Rep. Archer E. Reilly Jr. of Columbus for the November-January short term as state auditor which Cloud isn't seeking.

After calling for the nomination of those officials, Andrews called in chairmen of Ohio's 11 most populous counties for a conference prior to a dinner at the Governor's Mansion.

At the closed - door session, they reviewed local candidates and campaign strategy. Their task is complicated by legislative reapportionment under which, for the first time, candidates will run in districts rather than countywide.

Andrews noted that 61 of the 99 members in the 1967 Ohio House will be elected in the 11 big counties, and 20 of the 33 senators.

The counties are Cuyahoga, Franklin, Hamilton, Lucas, Mahoning, Montgomery, Summit, Stark, Trumbull, Butler and Lorain.

4 Escape Injury In Mishaps Due To Icy Highways

Three East Liverpool area drivers and an East Palestine youth escaped injury in two of a number of skidding mishaps across Columbiana County Thursday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Moderate damage resulted from a mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext. at 6:45 a.m.

A car operated by Shirley Burton, 37, of S. Meadowbrook Circle, pulled off the roadway and David Capehart, 26, of Kelley Ave., Glenmoor, could not halt his 1961 sedan on the slippery pavement and his car struck hers.

Richard McElhaney, 29, of 942 Ambrose Ave., headed north in a 1963, was unable to halt at the scene of the collision, and his car slid into the Burton auto.

Michael Cope, 18, of E. Clark St., East Palestine, lost control of his 1966 coach on Route 46, about a half mile east of Route 7, a. 6:50 a.m. and his car struck a guard rail.

Store Will Move To New Quarters

Roberts Jewelry, which has operated in the Little Building on the Diamond for 15 years, will open business in new quarters at 518 Market St. on the east side of the Diamond Monday.

The store, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlang of Manor Ln., will feature a new department for greeting cards, gift wrappings and party supplies.

The store also will have a larger area and broadened sales lines, according to the Schlangs, who have been in business in East Liverpool for more than 25 years.

City Property Leasing Plan Gets Sanction

Council gave unanimous approval Thursday night to an ordinance clearing the way for the city to lease municipally-owned property at E. 2nd and Union Sts. to the operators of the new Inn Town Motel on E. 3rd St., who plan to use it as an additional parking area.

Council's legislation authorizes Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey to sign a 10-year lease with the motel's owners, John Ray Woomer, John Richard Woomer and Michael J. Pusateri.

However, it provides that the lease may be terminated any time after the first three years if it is determined that the tract, or any part of it, will be required for the right-of-way for the eastward extension of the Freeway toward the state line.

The legislation provides for a fee of $1 a year, but also requires that the lessees will tear down an old two-story brick building on the site which has been condemned as a hazard by the state fire marshal's office. The lessees also are required to remove all the rubble, fill any excavations and level the site to the satisfaction of the director.

The tear-down order has been in effect for several years against the vacant property, which the city acquired from the estate of the late Judge Frank E. Grosshans. The city opened bids on demolishing the structure several times, but never received an offer which it considered satisfactory. The last bid was $6,800.

The agreement also requires the two Woomers and Pusateri to pay any taxes or assessments against the property. The legislation contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor George E. Willshaw.

Pusateri appeared before Council in a caucus session last night and received an agreement for closing of a short stretch of Farmers Alley from E. 3rd St. to Center Alley. His original request was for vacation of the alley, which meant the property covered by the alley would have reverted to the motel owners.

In closing the alley, Council will allow use of the stretch by the motel owners without surrendering title to the land. Pusateri said it will be used for access to a service entrance and will be covered with a structure that also will add to the parking space at the new motel.

Scranton Asked To Call Special Assembly Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton has been asked by a Democratic lawmaker to call a special session of the General Assembly to extend the state's mine subsidence law.

Rep. Thomas Foerster, chairman of the House Fisheries Committee, made the request Thursday in a strongly worded telegram which accused Scranton of snarling efforts in the 1965 legislature to provide home owners in the bituminous region with subsidence protection.

"I ask that you end your duplicity in this matter," the Allegheny County lawmaker said. "Your double cross of the people of Allegheny County and all of our bituminous areas will never be forgotten."

The Republican-controlled Senate amended a House bill last year to require the home owner to pay up to five per cent of the market value of his property to the coal operator who in turn would leave coal supports as a protection against mine cave-ins. House Democrats contended the home owner should pay nothing. Efforts to reach a compromise failed.

Medical Mirror

YELLOW JAUNDICE

Q. Are people who have yellow jaundice rejected as blood donors because their blood is impure?

A. Not necessarily. However, they usually are rejected as a precautionary measure. Jaundice (yellowing of the skin) can be due to various causes, ranging from virus infection (which could be transmitted to another person via blood transfusion) to simple obstruction of the bile passage in the liver. Even so, it is best to avoid even the slightest risk of mishap that may result from transfusing with the blood of a person having a history of jaundice of any type.

CANCER NOT TRANSMITTED BY CONTACT

Q. If a man has cancer and his wife becomes pregnant, can the disease be transmitted to the wife or the unborn child?

A. No.

MANGE

Q. Can a person get mange from a dog?

A. Authorities state that in rare instances humans can contact a scabies-like infection by contact with domestic animals suffering from "sarcoptoid mange" or "scab."

Republican State Chairman John S. Andrews, asked about Rhodes' delay, smiling said: "He has been terribly busy."

"Jim has a very broad base of appeal," commented Andrews. "I do believe he has attracted support in those areas in which Democrats usually run much stronger than Republicans."

DiSalle later admitted any Democratic candidate will have "an uphill fight" against the governor.

Candidates for the May 3 primary have until Feb. 2 to get their nominating petitions circulate, a required number of signatures from sufficient counties, and filed with the secretary of state.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe filed his petitions Thursday, with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

The policy committee, which recommends to the Republican State Central and Executive Committee, endorsed Rhodes, Saxbe, State Auditor Roger Cloud, Ted Brown, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Supreme Court Judge Paul W. Brown and Supreme Court Judge Louis J. Schneider for re-election.

Also recommended was State Rep. Archer E. Reilly Jr. of Columbus for the November-January short term as state auditor which Cloud isn't seeking.

After calling for the nomination of those officials, Andrews called in chairmen of Ohio's 11 most populous counties for a conference prior to a dinner at the Governor's Mansion.

At the closed - door session, they reviewed local candidates and campaign strategy. Their task is complicated by legislative reapportionment under which, for the first time, candidates will run in districts rather than countywide.

Andrews noted that 61 of the 99 members in the 1967 Ohio House will be elected in the 11 big counties, and 20 of the 33 senators.

The counties are Cuyahoga, Franklin, Hamilton, Lucas, Mahoning, Montgomery, Summit, Stark, Trumbull, Butler and Lorain.

4 Escape Injury In Mishaps Due To Icy Highways

Three East Liverpool area drivers and an East Palestine youth escaped injury in two of a number of skidding mishaps across Columbiana County Thursday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Moderate damage resulted from a mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext. at 6:45 a.m.

A car operated by Shirley Burton, 37, of S. Meadowbrook Circle, pulled off the roadway and David Capehart, 26, of Kelley Ave., Glenmoor, could not halt his 1961 sedan on the slippery pavement and his car struck hers.

Richard McElhaney, 29, of 942 Ambrose Ave., headed north in a 1963, was unable to halt at the scene of the collision, and his car slid into the Burton auto.

Michael Cope, 18, of E. Clark St., East Palestine, lost control of his 1966 coach on Route 46, about a half mile east of Route 7, a. 6:50 a.m. and his car struck a guard rail.

Roberts Jewelry, which has operated in the Little Building on the Diamond for 15 years, will open business in new quarters at 518 Market St. on the east side of the Diamond Monday.

The store, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlang of Manor Ln., will feature a new department for greeting cards, gift wrappings and party supplies.

The store also will have a larger area and broadened sales lines, according to the Schlangs, who have been in business in East Liverpool for more than 25 years.

City Property Leasing Plan Gets Sanction

Council gave unanimous approval Thursday night to an ordinance clearing the way for the city to lease municipally-owned property at E. 2nd and Union Sts. to the operators of the new Inn Town Motel on E. 3rd St., who plan to use it as an additional parking area.

Council's legislation authorizes Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey to sign a 10-year lease with the motel's owners, John Ray Woomer, John Richard Woomer and Michael J. Pusateri.

However, it provides that the lease may be terminated any time after the first three years if it is determined that the tract, or any part of it, will be required for the right-of-way for the eastward extension of the Freeway toward the state line.

The legislation provides for a fee of $1 a year, but also requires that the lessees will tear down an old two-story brick building on the site which has been condemned as a hazard by the state fire marshal's office. The lessees also are required to remove all the rubble, fill any excavations and level the site to the satisfaction of the director.

The tear-down order has been in effect for several years against the vacant property, which the city acquired from the estate of the late Judge Frank E. Grosshans. The city opened bids on demolishing the structure several times, but never received an offer which it considered satisfactory. The last bid was $6,800.

The agreement also requires the two Woomers and Pusateri to pay any taxes or assessments against the property. The legislation contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor George E. Willshaw.

Pusateri appeared before Council in a caucus session last night and received an agreement for closing of a short stretch of Farmers Alley from E. 3rd St. to Center Alley. His original request was for vacation of the alley, which meant the property covered by the alley would have reverted to the motel owners.

In closing the alley, Council will allow use of the stretch by the motel owners without surrendering title to the land. Pusateri said it will be used for access to a service entrance and will be covered with a structure that also will add to the parking space at the new motel.

Scranton Asked To Call Special Assembly Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton has been asked by a Democratic lawmaker to call a special session of the General Assembly to extend the state's mine subsidence law.

Rep. Thomas Foerster, chairman of the House Fisheries Committee, made the request Thursday in a strongly worded telegram which accused Scranton of snarling efforts in the 1965 legislature to provide home owners in the bituminous region with subsidence protection.

"I ask that you end your duplicity in this matter," the Allegheny County lawmaker said. "Your double cross of the people of Allegheny County and all of our bituminous areas will never be forgotten."

The Republican-controlled Senate amended a House bill last year to require the home owner to pay up to five per cent of the market value of his property to the coal operator who in turn would leave coal supports as a protection against mine caveins. House Democrats contended the home owner should pay nothing. Efforts to reach a compromise failed.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Ray, The Image-Maker

"Maybe they are trying to improve their image," says Ray Bolger with a grin across his lopsided map, while attempting to explain why he's been picked to host "The Road to Pebble Beach."

Hal Humphrey

It's a half-hour "special" coming up Saturday (4 p.m., Channel 11) as a prologue to Bing Crosby's 25th Annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament, all on NBC-TV, including a 90-minute session Sunday.

-:-

BING'S CHARITY GOLF bash has been televised since 1958, and Bolger's crack about image betterment is funnier if you witnessed some of the earlier efforts.

Bing's free-wheeling golf buddies and their ad-libs have put this event in the same category with the Foreign Press Association's Golden Glove Awards, which used to be more raucous than an American Legion convention until turning mildly respectable last year as part of the Andy Williams Show (Andy will take it on again the end of this month).

This time of year the weather at Pebble Beach, near San Francisco, usually is cold and rainy, and artificial stimulants are taken on by some of the Hollywood branch of the amateur golfers to avoid pneumonia. Overdoses of such stimulants have been blamed for on-camera repartee which normally would be confined to the locker room.

VETERANS of these Crosby-Klatches still talk about the momentary lapse of judgment suffered by Phil Harris as he came up with an unprintable (but on the air) description of pro golfer Gay Brewer.

After the first telecast, Bing sent letters to TV columnists and sportswriters apologizing for the egg laid by his Pebble Beach show. But it's silly to go on making excuses, and anyway the Groaner's main concern is finding a network who'll go along with the gag.

CBS never came near Pebble Beach after that first telecast. ABC took it on for four years, and one year Bing hooked up with a promoter who went around the country signing up individual stations in what one wiseacre referred to as a "barbed - wire network." NBC had it last year and is back this time.

THE SPONSOR for the 1966 affair picked dancer-comedian Bolger to play host. Bolger is a golfer (12 handicap) and plays the Crosby tournament anyway. And Bing is happy to have someone else aboard to help him take the rap.

Image-wise, of course, no one can fault Bolger. He's been married to one wife, Gwen, since 1929 and started playing golf when he was a 12-year-old caddy at Franklin Park in Dorcester, Mass. Then the clubs were called things like brassie, mashie, niblicks. Bolger insists there was one called a cleek.

"Golf has been a wonderful thing for show people," he maintains. "It has helped get us into bed and out of night clubs."

BOLGER was graduated from his caddy days to a Gus Edwards unit on the Keith and Orpheum vaudeville time. He got in a lot of golf because that was a two-a-day show business and two performances left "Rubber Legs" Bolger, as he was known then, with plenty of free time on his hands.

Bolger's only regret now is that he didn't stay in the West where he says one meets more millionaries on golf courses than back East. If he hadn't returned to New York in those days to join the 1931 edition of George White's "Scandals," we might have been watching Ray Bolger's 25th Annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament on Saturday with Bing Crosby or Phil Harris . . . no, forget it.

-:-

ANYWAY, when I saw Bolger brushing up his game and his plus fours at Bel-Air Country Club (where you're handicapped another five strokes if you don't have a million dollars), he was confident that his little half-hour "special" would be a big hit.

"You actually going to wear those plus fours?" I inquired.

"Of course, they're coming back now. Didn't you know?"

"What will you say about them on the show?"

"Well, now, that's the nice thing about 'em. You don't have to say anything. They speak for themselves," replied Rubber Legs, alias the Scarecrow from "The Wizard of Oz."

Parents Slayer To Be Arraigned On Murder Count

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Jerry Lee Sanderson, a teen-ager police say murdered his parents then set fire to their house with his mother inside, faces an arraignment today on charges of murder.

State police said Sanderson, 15, of Slippery Rock will be arraigned before Alderman Harold Armstrong of Butler.

He was returned by Pennsylvania authorities last night from Whitehall, Wis., where he fled following the double slaying early Tuesday. A Wisconsin judge approved the transfer under the interstate compact on juveniles.

Police said Sanderson's father, Henry, 54, was found shot to death in a ditch near his farm home. The body of his mother, Dorothy, 44, was discovered in the burned ruins.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Ray, The Image-Maker

"Maybe they are trying to improve their image," says Ray Bolger with a grin across his lopsided map, while attempting to explain why he's been picked to host "The Road to Pebble Beach."

Hal Humphrey

It's a half-hour "special" coming up Saturday (4 p.m., Channel 11) as a prologue to Bing Crosby's 25th Annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament, all on NBC-TV, including a 90-minute session Sunday.

-:-

BING'S CHARITY GOLF bash has been televised since 1958, and Bolger's crack about image betterment is funnier if you witnessed some of the earlier efforts.

Bing's free-wheeling golf buddies and their ad-libs have put this event in the same category with the Foreign Press Association's Golden Glove Awards, which used to be more raucous than an American Legion convention until turning mildly respectable last year as part of the Andy Williams Show (Andy will take it on again the end of this month).

This time of year the weather at Pebble Beach, near San Francisco, usually is cold and rainy, and artificial stimulants are taken on by some of the Hollywood branch of the amateur golfers to avoid pneumonia. Overdoses of such stimulants have been blamed for on-camera repartee which normally would be confined to the locker room.

VETERANS of these Crosby-Klatches still talk about the momentary lapse of judgment suffered by Phil Harris as he came up with an unprintable (but on the air) description of pro golfer Gay Brewer.

After the first telecast, Bing sent letters to TV columnists and sportswriters apologizing for the egg laid by his Pebble Beach show. But it's silly to go on making excuses, and anyway the Groaner's main concern is finding a network who'll go along with the gag.

CBS never came near Pebble Beach after that first telecast. ABC took it on for four years, and one year Bing hooked up with a promoter who went around the country signing up individual stations in what one wiseacre referred to as a "barbed - wire network." NBC had it last year and is back this time.

THE SPONSOR for the 1966 affair picked dancer-comedian Bolger to play host. Bolger is a golfer (12 handicap) and plays the Crosby tournament anyway. And Bing is happy to have someone else aboard to help him take the rap.

Image-wise, of course, no one can fault Bolger. He's been married to one wife, Gwen, since 1929 and started playing golf when he was a 12-year-old caddy at Franklin Park in Dorcester, Mass. Then the clubs were called things like brassie, mashie, niblicks. Bolger insists there was one called a cleek.

"Golf has been a wonderful thing for show people," he maintains. "It has helped get us into bed and out of night clubs."

BOLGER was graduated from his caddy days to a Gus Edwards unit on the Keith and Orpheum vaudeville time. He got in a lot of golf because that was a two-a-day show business and two performances left "Rubber Legs" Bolger, as he was known then, with plenty of free time on his hands.

Bolger's only regret now is that he didn't stay in the West where he says one meets more millionaries on golf courses than back East. If he hadn't returned to New York in those days to join the 1931 edition of George White's "Scandals," we might have been watching Ray Bolger's 25th Annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament on Saturday with Bing Crosby or Phil Harris . . . no, forget it.

-:-

ANYWAY, when I saw Bolger brushing up his game and his plus fours at Bel-Air Country Club (where you're handicapped another five strokes if you don't have a million dollars), he was confident that his little half-hour "special" would be a big hit.

"You actually going to wear those plus fours?" I inquired.

"Of course, they're coming back now. Didn't you know?"

"What will you say about them on the show?"

"Well, now, that's the nice thing about 'em. You don't have to say anything. They speak for themselves," replied Rubber Legs, alias the Scarecrow from "The Wizard of Oz."

One Man Killed, 2 Wounded In Tavern Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Raymond Bohley was sitting in Chick's Blue Ribbon Cafe with about 25 other patrons when four gunmen came in.

Two of the men had shotguns, another a .45-caliber automatic and the other a .38-calber revolver.

"You're not going to get the money," Bohley said as he reached for one shotgun. Elmer Robbins helped and the two men wrestled the gun away from one gunman and used it as a club to hit the man with the revolver.

As he was hit, the man fired three shots. One killed Bohley, 45, of North Olmsted. The other two shots hit Robbins, 39, of Cleveland and Dewey Hanlan, 42, of Cleveland. Both were reported in critical condition at St. John's Hospital.

Merger Attempt By Pennzoil And Kendall Dropped

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — Proposed merger plans have been dropped by the Pennzoil Co. and Kendall Refining Co.

The U.S. Justice Department had opposed the proposed merger of the two firms on grounds it would eliminate potential competition in the purchase and production of Pennsylvania grade crude oil.

U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh had issued an injunction temporarily banning the merger.

Thursday, the two firms announced jointly they were dropping the merger attempt. They said that because of the court order and "other relevant circumstances it is not feasible to continue efforts to consumate the merger."

In issuing the order Dec. 30, Judge Louis Rosenberg said that if the merger were to be completed the two firms would account for 28 per cent of Pennsylvania grade crude oil production, purchase 34 per cent of the production and have 51 per cent of the total refining capacity for Pennsylvania crude.

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — State Sen. William Sesler, D-Erie, has the endorsement of Democratic chairmen from five Northwestern Pennsylvania counties for the party's nomination for governor, according to one of the chairmen.

Stuart Culbertson, Crawford County chairman, said he and chairmen of Erie, Clearfield, Fores, and Warren counties endorsed the 38-year-old Erie lawyer Thursday night at a meeting of Democratic leaders from 11 counties in the region.

Culbertson said the party chairmen of Jefferson, Mercer, Clarion, and Venango counties endorsed Sesler for the state ticket, but not necessarily for governor. The McKean County chairman, Culbertson said, recommended Sesler for lieutenant governor. One county chairman was absent.

Sesler, now serving his second term in the Senate, previously had been endorsed by the Democratic executive boards of Erie and Crawford counties for the gubernatorial nomination.

Saunders said net income for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. was $33,896,500 or $2.45 a share, an increase of more than 16 per cent over 1964's $29,133,000 or $2.12 a share.

One Man Killed, 2 Wounded In Tavern Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Raymond Bohley was sitting in Chick's Blue Ribbon Cafe with about 25 other patrons when four gunmen came in.

Two of the men had shotguns, another a .45-caliber automatic and the other a .38-calber revolver.

"You're not going to get the money," Bohley said as he reached for one shotgun. Elmer Robbins helped and the two men wrestled the gun away from one gunman and used it as a club to hit the man with the revolver.

As he was hit, the man fired three shots. One killed Bohley, 45, of North Olmsted. The other two shots hit Robbins, 39, of Cleveland and Dewey Hanlan, 42, of Cleveland. Both were reported in critical condition at St. John's Hospital.

Police blocked both bridges leading from the West Side to downtown and set up road blocks on Memorial Shoreway shortly after the shooting Thursday night. But the holdup men escaped with about $60.

Merger Attempt By Pennzoil And Kendall Dropped

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — Proposed merger plans have been dropped by the Pennzoil Co. and Kendall Refining Co.

The U.S. Justice Department had opposed the proposed merger of the two firms on grounds it would eliminate potential competition in the purchase and production of Pennsylvania grade crude oil.

U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh had issued an injunction temporarily banning the merger.

Thursday, the two firms announced jointly they were dropping the merger attempt. They said that because of the court order and "other relevant circumstances it is not feasible to continue efforts to consumate the merger."

In issuing the order Dec. 30, Judge Louis Rosenberg said that if the merger were to be completed the two firms would account for 28 per cent of Pennsylvania grade crude oil production, purchase 34 per cent of the production and have 51 per cent of the total refining capacity for Pennsylvania crude.

Sen. Sesler Gets Endorsement In Governor Race

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — State Sen. William Sesler, D-Erie, has the endorsement of Democratic chairmen from five Northwestern Pennsylvania counties for the party's nomination for governor, according to one of the chairmen.

Stuart Culbertson, Crawford County chairman, said he and chairmen of Erie, Clearfield, Fores, and Warren counties endorsed the 38-year-old Erie lawyer Thursday night at a meeting of Democratic leaders from 11 counties in the region.

Culbertson said the party chairmen of Jefferson, Mercer, Clarion, and Venango counties endorsed Sesler for the state ticket, but not necessarily for governor. The McKean County chairman, Culbertson said, recommended Sesler for lieutenant governor. One county chairman was absent.

Poverty Unit Head Selected

A 53-year-old Columbiana industrial engineer was employed Thursday night as program director for the Columbiana County Community Action Committee.

Clyde A. Harrold of 136 N. Elm St., Columbiana, president and plant manager of the Columbiana Milling & Supply Co., was chosen from three final candidates for the post.

Harrold, a graduate of Mount Union College and the University of Pittsburgh, will head a staff of five to conduct a survey of county poverty problems and implement programs to aid the low-income groups.

Harrold reported he applied for the post because of his interest in the program, his experience and because it is expected the Columbiana firm will be sold in the near future.

Fred Simmen of Oakmont, president, said a meeting will be held Monday night to screen applications for the posts of bookkeeper - clerk, secretary-typist and two survey aides.

Simmen presided at last night's meeting at the Lisbon Village Hall. Three candidates were interviewed.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: My husband devised a wonderful method for re-grouting ceramic tile in the bathroom.

He simply used a cake decorator with a plain tip, to get professional results with ease.

Simply mix grout according to directions, and fill cake decorating tube with mixture. Push handle gently just as though decorating a cake.

Prevents so much of the mess grouting makes.

MRS. LLOYD A. HAYNES.

That's a great idea.

For that matter, you could use a plastic squeeze-type catsup or mustard bottle, or a snip-top type of small, plastic detergent bottle! And no mess whatsoever.

Our thanks to you, Mrs. Haynes and your nice husband for passing this tip along.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: When cleaning house, I go barefoot.

This way I can tell if I have left any dirt on the floor . . . which I do quite often!

I can also pick up objects with my toes, and don't get as tired as when I have to bend over!

LAURA HARRIS.

DEAR HELOISE: I mend our old-type window shades with a matching color of iron-on tape! It reinforces them, and the patch hardly shows.

A READER.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a supply of postcards (which we all know cost four cents!) on hand. When I can't contact a person by 'phone, I jot down the message on the card and drop it in the mail box. Then I know the message is on the way — and everybody likes to receive mail, especially when not a bill or advertisement!

Some people will call every day for a week and get no answer, then give up, and the message is never conveyed.

M. KATHRYN.

DEAR HELOISE: I have discovered that after I fold my sheets, if I put them on the ironing board and spray a little starch over them then iron them . . . they are like new sheets, and look and feel better on the bed.

I always starch pillow cases. They are not only easier to iron, but they stay fresh longer, too.

A.C.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's an idea for what it is worth:

Take a six-inch strip of nylon net (which is 72 inches long), gather it down the middle, and fasten it with a pipe cleaner.

Fasten an ornament onto the pipe cleaner, and place it anywhere in the house.

We like one near a mirror as a last minute lint brush for our clothing. Excellent for this.

PHYLLIS HEYLMAN.

Another way to make these pompons, if you don't sew and don't happen to have any pipe cleaners.

Just wind a rubber band around and around the middle of the bathered strip of net! Makes that little scrubber quick as a wink, and works wonderfully.

Another dilly I've tried is using one of those plastic coated wires off vegetable bags. It works beautifully.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I use the bottom of a plastic bottle as a flower vase or a holder of many articles (pencils, rollers, etc.). They are inexpensive, and when decorated they are very attractive.

All one has to do is cut the top off of any size bottle.

A.P.

DEAR HELOISE: A small, folding-type stepladder, painted a bright color to match the kitchen, makes an excellent youth chair for kids who are past the high-chair stage.

British Plants Are Crippled In Cold Wave

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed the hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week, and assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees Fahrenheit. The Weather Bureau said the last three months have been the coldest Oslo has known since official records started 132 years ago.

Sweden, enduring its coldest winter since 1881, reported 43 ships icebound in the northern Baltic. Inland temperatures ranged from -4 to -38 Fahrenheit. By these standards Britain, with temperatures only a few degrees below freezing, was enjoying a heat wave but the consequences were considerable.

Cuts by the government gas and electrical industries gave the Conservative opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Conservatives said the attack will start as soon as Parliament returns Tuesday from the Christmas recess. It will culminate Thursday in an attempt to bring the government down by forcing a vote of censure.

One issue the opposition will raise is what happened to the winter emergency committee set up by the government after similar power cuts last November.

The government's answer is that it is concerned only with long-term solutions. The main cause of the current trouble is failures in two major gas plants in the Midlands.

Mrs. Donna Stambolia of 311 Carolina Ave. was treated for a laceration of the scalp after she slipped on a snowy walk and fell backward against steps.

Tempers 'Hot' In Mossler Murder Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tempers of opposing attorneys were growing short as the Mossler murder trial moved into its fifth day with no indication when the two sides might agree on a jury.

Fifty-nine prospective jurors had been examined at length when Thursday's session ended. Richard Gerstein, state attorney, and Percy Foreman, defense attorney, were warned by Circuit Judge George Schultz to stop sniping at each other.

During the day, a young draftee attempted to get to Candace Mossler, accused of killing her multimillionaire husband, Jacques.

Thomas King, 21, was grabbed by detectives when he appeared at the courtroom door in shirtsleeves, identified himself as an attorney and said he urgently needed to talk to Mrs. Mossler.

King was handcuffed and questioned by officers in a room outside the court. He said that he didn't know why he tried to get into the courtroom. And that he didn't know the blonde defendant.

King, who carried a notice to report for induction from Draft Board 57 in Long Island, N.Y., was booked for vagrancy and public drunkenness.

Mrs. Mossler, 39, was indicted with her nephew, Melvin Lane Power, 29, on charges that, as lovers, they plotted the murder of her husband. Mossler, 69, a Texas banker, was killed in a Miami apartment in 1964.

By the end of Thursday, Gerstein and Foreman had questioned 59 veniremen and 47 had been excused, including 24 who would not assess the death penalty.

Psychologist's Testimony Due In Murder Trial

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)— Dr. Ron Peterson, an Arizona State College psychologist, was to take the stand today in the Donald M. Boggs murder case.

The state rested its case Thursday in the Superior Court hearing for Boggs, 23, an ex-convict from Londonderry, Ohio.

Boggs has pleaded guilty to killing two New Hampshire men Sept. 5, 1965, in Northern Arizona. He asked that a jury decide whether he should be executed or face a life prison term.

Defense attorney Tom Brooks said he may not have more than two witnesses—Peterson and Dr. Maier Tuchler, a Phoenix, Ariz., psychiatrist.

The state called several witnesses Thursday, including sheriff's deputy William Kinney, who arrested Boggs in a Flagstaff pawn shop.

Boggs has admitted the fatal shootings.

Dixie Lee Radcliff, 16, the daughter of an Amesville, Ohio, minister, was arrested with Boggs. She is to go on trial March 7 on two counts of murder in the deaths.

Hearing In Narcotics Case Due Ex-Ohioan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Youngstown, Ohio, city councilman-elect John J. Tobin, 37, arraigned Thursday in the Superior Court psychiatric department, was assigned hearing Jan. 25 to determine if he is a narcotics addict.

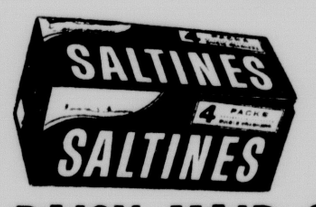

An ex-convict living with his family at Long Beach, Calif., since serving five years for embezzling from a Youngstown insurance company, Tobin's case stems from his guilty plea Dec. 20 to forgery, grand theft and burglary. Authorities said he planned to open a furniture store with fraudulently obtained merchandise, but criminal proceedings were suspended when a probation report indicated Tobin's "heavy use of dangerous drugs including cocaine and demerol."

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a supply of postcards (which we all know cost four cents!) on hand. When I can't contact a person by 'phone, I jot down the message on the card and drop it in the mail box. Then I know the message is on the way — and everybody likes to receive mail, especially when not a bill or advertisement!

Some people will call every day for a week and get no answer, then give up, and the message is never conveyed.

DEAR HELOISE: I have discovered that after I fold my sheets, if I put them on the ironing board and spray a little starch over them then iron them . . . they are like new sheets, and look and feel better on the bed.

I always starch pillow cases. They are not only easier to iron, but they stay fresh longer, too.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's an idea for what it is worth:

Take a six-inch strip of nylon net (which is 72 inches long), gather it down the middle, and fasten it with a pipe cleaner.

Fasten an ornament onto the pipe cleaner, and place it anywhere in the house.

We like one near a mirror as a last minute lint brush for our clothing. Excellent for this.

PHYLLIS HEYLMAN.

Another way to make these pompons, if you don't sew and don't happen to have any pipe cleaners.

Just wind a rubber band around and around the middle of the bathered strip of net! Makes that little scrubber quick as a wink, and works wondertully.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I use the bottom of a plastic bottle as a flower vase or a holder of many articles (pencils, rollers, etc.). They are inexpensive, and when decorated they are very attractive.

All one has to do is cut the top off of any size bottle.

British Plants Are Crippled In Cold Wave

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed the hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week, and assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees Fahrenheit. The Weather Bureau said the last three months have been the coldest Oslo has known since official records started 132 years ago.

Sweden, enduring its coldest winter since 1881, reported 43 ships icebound in the northern Baltic. Inland temperatures ranged from -4 to -38 Fahrenheit. By these standards Britain, with temperatures only a few degrees below freezing, was enjoying a heat wave but the consequences were considerable.

Cuts by the government gas and electrical industries gave the Conservative opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Conservatives said the attack will start as soon as Parliament returns Tuesday from the Christmas recess. It will culminate Thursday in an attempt to bring the government down by forcing a vote of censure.

One issue the opposition will raise is what happened to the winter emergency committee set up by the government after similar power cuts last November.

The government's answer is that it is concerned only with long-term solutions. The main cause of the current trouble is failures in two major gas plants in the Midlands.

Tempers 'Hot' In Mossler Murder Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tempers of opposing attorneys were growing short as the Mossler murder trial moved into its fifth day with no indication when the two sides might agree on a jury.

Fifty-nine prospective jurors had been examined at length when Thursday's session ended. Richard Gerstein, state attorney, and Percy Foreman, defense attorney, were warned by Circuit Judge George Schultz to stop sniping at each other.

During the day, a young draftee attempted to get to Candace Mossler, accused of killing her multimillionaire husband, Jacques.

Thomas King, 21, was grabbed by detectives when he appeared at the courtroom door in shirtsleeves, identified himself as an attorney and said he urgently needed to talk to Mrs. Mossler.

King was handcuffed and questioned by officers in a room outside the court. He said that he didn't know why he tried to get into the courtroom. And that he didn't know the blonde defendant.

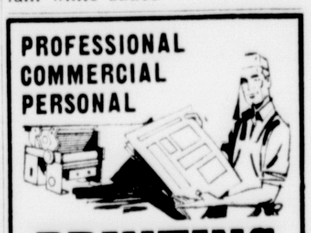

King, who carried a notice to report for induction from Draft Board 57 in Long Island, N.Y., was booked for vagrancy and public drunkenness.

Mrs. Mossler, 39, was indicted with her nephew, Melvin Lane Power, 29, on charges that, as lovers, they plotted the murder of her husband. Mossler, 69, a Texas banker, was killed in a Miami apartment in 1964.

By the end of Thursday, Gerstein and Foreman had questioned 59 veniremen and 47 had been excused, including 24 who would not assess the death penalty.

Psychologist's Testimony Due In Murder Trial

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)— Dr. Ron Peterson, an Arizona State College psychologist, was to take the stand today in the Donald M. Boggs murder case.

The state rested its case Thursday in the Superior Court hearing for Boggs, 23, an ex-convict from Londonderry, Ohio.

Boggs has pleaded guilty to killing two New Hampshire men Sept. 5, 1965, in Northern Arizona. He asked that a jury decide whether he should be executed or face a life prison term.

Defense attorney Tom Brooks said he may not have more than two witnesses—Peterson and Dr. Maier Tuchler, a Phoenix, Ariz., psychiatrist.

The state called several witnesses Thursday, including sheriff's deputy William Kinney, who arrested Boggs in a Flagstaff pawn shop.

Boggs has admitted the fatal shootings.

Dixie Lee Radcliff, 16, the daughter of an Amesville, Ohio, minister, was arrested with Boggs. She is to go on trial March 7 on two counts of murder in the deaths.

Hearing In Narcotics Case Due Ex-Ohioan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Youngstown, Ohio, city councilman-elect John J. Tobin, 37, arraigned Thursday in the Superior Court psychiatric department, was assigned hearing Jan. 25 to determine if he is a narcotics addict.

An ex-convict living with his family at Long Beach, Calif., since serving five years for embezzling from a Youngstown insurance company, Tobin's case stems from his guilty plea Dec. 20 to forgery, grand theft and burglary. Authorities said he planned to open a furniture store with fraudulently obtained merchandise, but criminal proceedings were suspended when a probation report indicated Tobin's "heavy use of dangerous drugs including cocaine and demerol."

City Will Buy Final Tract To Enlarge Ceramic Lot

Council approved an ordinance Thursday night clearing the way for the city to acquire the last tract of property needed for expansion of the Ceramic Parking Lot — a double house on E. 3rd St. near Market St. owned by Mrs. Harriette Cubberly.

Council fixed a price of $12,800 for the real estate and, in effect, terminated an action in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon in which the city sought to appropriate the property and have a jury set the compensation which must be paid the owner.

Mrs. Cubberly was the only property owner in the stretch with which the city was unable to come to terms when it sought to acquire additional land to expand the Ceramic Lot. Her property fronts 30 feet on E. 3rd St. and runs back 60 feet to Church Alley.

Council also approved a companion measure boosting from $70,000 to $85,000 the total of bonds which will be issued to cover the purchase of all the E. 3rd St. properties and preparing the land for use as a parking site.

The 1964-65 Council had approved the issuance of $70,000 in bonds. Last night's action raised the total to $85,000—representing the cost of acquiring the Cubberly property and its preparation for parking.

Structures have been razed on the balance of the proposed parking tract and the city has awarded contracts for additional work such as grading, paving, draining and erection of a retaining wall.

As is the case in other municipally-operated lots, revenue from parking meters will be used to retire the debt.

The bond legislation stipulates that $50,000 will be used for purchase of the land and $35,000 will be utilized for surfacing, purchase of meters and other expenses.

The addition to the Ceramic Lot is expected to be in service by spring.

As the meeting adjourned, Councilman Frank Duffy asked the street committee to investigate the possibility of eliminating left turns at E. 5th and Walnut Sts. Councilman Robert W. Sample, president pro tem, presided in the absence of President Ernest Lowe.

There's Magic In Thinking Slim

To triumph in reducing, adventure in a new way of thinking. Let this be an exciting challenge. Think slim and picture yourself at shapely weight. By this plan you can actually develop a built-in slimming system.

Ida Jean Kain

To gain fresh insight, first examine your attitude toward the whole process of reducing. To reduce, it is necessary for you to change to less fattening food habits and add a little more exercise. Are you willing to do so? You can't win if you feel sorry for yourself at having to curb calories. In that frame of mind, giving up favorite fatteners would be an unbearable sacrifice.

TAKE THIS point of view. The science of nutrition applied to everyday eating assures success in slimming. You're doing yourself a favor. Channel your thinking in direction of your goal—shapely weight, with bounce and verve restored. Give that picture to your mind. It is a psychological truth that what your mind cuts the pattern for trends to be brought into reality. Expect success!

I vividly recall an interview with Cary Grant. This debonair screen star keeps lithe and lean by "thinking thin," as he terms it. The technique is to picture yourself slim and you will be slim. In reducing, this won't happen all at once, for it takes time to turn excess fat back into energy. What does happen is that you find yourself choosing the food pattern that will help you to reach desirable weight.

A READER who has achieved shining success by this positive way of thinking, writes:

"This letter is long overdue but perhaps of more value because of the lapse in time. Now I can report that I have stayed slim.

"I started my diet on May 1, 1963. I sent for your "Eat To Build Leanness" diet, and tuned into your column for advice and encouragement to persevere. I believe the greatest help was your idea to 'think slim.' 'Envision yourself in a smaller dress size,' you suggested.

"I weighed 147 pounds for 5' 3". By the end of summer I had lost 25 pounds. In the fall I slimmed down another 7 pounds without too much effort for by then I had made the protective way of eating a habit pattern.

"Now, two and a half years later, I still weigh 115 pounds. This is the first dieting by which I was ever successful in staying slim. I control calories, of course, and weigh myself regularly. I prefer to eat this way. If I find the pointer edging up, I take needed action. Above all, I continue to 'think slim' and to picture myself at my right weight. Assure your dieters that thinking slim is really effective."

Union Given $38.702 As Hurricane Relief

Local Union 220 at New Orleans received donations totaling $38.702 from other locals, officers and individuals for use as a relief fund after Hurricane Betsy swept through the Louisiana coastal area in September, the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters announced today.

The money was used primarily to repair or replace the homes of 50 members of Local 220 that were hit hard by the storm. Shortly after the hurricane, the IBOP responded to a call for aid and asked its members and their locals to send contributions to the local in Louisiana.

The IBOP published a detailed list of donations, which showed funds were contributed by most of its locals and many individuals, including international officers.

Total Of Marines Will Be Highest Since World War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strengthening of the Marine Corps by nearly 55,000 more men will raise the corps to its highest manpower level since World War II.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has proposed boosting the Marine ceiling to 278,184 officers and men and to create a fourth Marine division.

Even at its peak in the Korean War, the Marine Corps did not reach the strength now planned for it. In September 1953, there were 261,343 Marines on duty.

The Marines already have more men in Viet Nam than they had in Korea at their highest point.

Counting recent reinforcements landed in Viet Nam, the Marine contingent there totals about 41,000 men. At its topmost point in the Korean War, the corps had 35,306 men in that embattled country.

Couple Identifies Body Of Boy, 2; Warrant Issued

MONROE, Mich. (AP)—A Toledo, Ohio, couple cleared up a five-day mystery Thursday by identifying the body of a little boy as that of the 2-year-old who, along with his mother, recently lived with them.

Soon after the identification of the body found almost a week ago Michigan State Police issued a first degree murder warrant for Albert Sanchez, 22, believed to be with the child's mother. Texas authorities were notified that the couple may be there.

The mother, Miss Carolina Montalvo, 20, Sanchez, and the boy, Eddie, had lived for a time last fall with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gonzales in Toledo, according to police in the Ohio city. The Gonzaleses identified the body, but authorities did not disclose what led them to the couple.

Eddie Montalvo was born Oct. 29, 1963, in Adrian, Mich., police said. His body was discovered last Saturday in a wooden privy on an abandoned farm near this Southern Michigan community. An autopsy disclosed he had been beaten to death, police said.

Basketball Takes Big Bounce With 24 Games On Tap

Wellsville Meets Beavers In One Of 15 Contests On Tonight's Card

Basketball will take a big bounce in the district as the busiest weekend of the 1965-66 season unfolds for area teams.

Twenty-four games will be played in the next two nights with 15 tonight and nine more Saturday.

A re-match and Buckeye Border Conference game at Wellsville, East Liverpool's visit to Steubenville Central and a key Tri-County battle highlight tonight's action.

Wellsville will host Beaver Local in an attempt to avenge a 73-72 loss on the Beavers' court last month. The first meeting developed into a scoring duel between Larry Roberts and Wellsville's Harry Thornton who hooped 27 each in that contest.

COACH Lloyd Stockdale's team also is attempting to shake a three game losing streak after starting the season with a seven game win string.

Wellsville is batting .500 on the season with 4-4 and the improved Tiger five has won its last two contests.

After taking Tuesday off from the Section 8 battles, Midland returns to the home court to face Beaver which has yet to record a league victory in three starts.

THE LEOPARDS must win every league battle now after dropping a 39-38 decision to league leading Monaca last week.

Oak Glen, back on the win trail after a romp over Burgettstown earlier this week, is on the road tonight at Wellsburg.

The Tri-County spotlight will focus on Lisbon where league leading Minerva brings its 5-0 loop mark. Lisbon was very much in the running up until last week then on successive nights dropped two league games.

COLUMBIANA, who almost defeated Minerva last week, appears at Poland while East Palestine is at Sebring and Leetonia's improved forces visit Louisville.

A strong Lowellville squad will test Crestview which is back in the victory column after edging Lordstown Saturday with a brilliant 34 - point performance by Bill Kress, which was the top effort by a district cager last week.

SOUTHERN Local has two Class AA opponents on tap this week with West Branch appearing tonight while the Indians go to Toronto Saturday where the Red Knights will go all out to avenge an upset at Southern several weeks ago.

United, its seven game winning streak ended at Dennison St. Mary's will be out to start a new one when Malvern invades tonight.

A Big 8 Conference fray finds Salem at Niles tonight.

In a pair of Pennsylvania games, South Side will host Bellvue as the Rams go after their second Sec. 22 win and Western Beaver will host Hopewell. The Beavers have failed to register a Section 8 victory so far.

Austin Named Steeler Coach

LA Assistant Choice; 5 Jobs Remain Open

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Austin is the new coach at Pittsburgh and George Allen finally is officially in at Los Angeles, but five pro football jobs still are open.

Atlanta, Washington and St. Louis are the three vacancies in the National Football League, and Houston and Miami have openings in the American League.

When Atlanta originally said it would make no announcement until the end of the season, it was presumed that this meant a coach would be chosen before the first of January. However, there has been no word, although 45,000 season tickets have been sold.

One of the hot rumors through the year had George Wilson, former Detroit head coach and a Washington assistant last season, headed for the Falcons.

Washington has yet to pick Bill McPeak's successor. Paul Brown's name has been mentioned, but the fact that he is reportedly trying to line up a group to build a stadium and grab the 16th franchise for Cincinnati may rule him out. Another name bandied around is Bob Devaney of Nebraska.

St. Louis is looking for a new man to take over the job vacated by Wally Lemm. Harland Svare, fired at Los Angeles in a surprising move, is reported high on the list of possibilities.

The hiring of Austin at Pittsburgh follows the recent trend to take assistant coaches and move them into the head spot. Austin had been rumored to be in line for every vacant head coaching job in the league for several years while he was Vince Lombardi's assistant at Green Bay.

Austin left the Packers suddenly last year and shifted to Los Angeles as an assistant under Svare while Ray Wietecha moved from the Rams to the Packer staff.

The decision to fire Bones Taylor at Houston after he claimed he had a verbal agreement to continue for three more years stirred up quite a flurry. Lemm reportedly is in line to follow Taylor. Taylor is talking of court action and a protest to Commissioner Joe Foss.

Austin, 37, was given a three-year contract. Salary terms were not revealed

"It's a big challenge, but I'm happy to be with such an organization as the Steelers," said Austin at his home in Van Nuys, Calif.

Austin replaces Mike Nixon, who was fired by the Steelers Dec. 28 after the club finished one of its most dismal seasons, losing 12 of 14 games. Nixon took over the club following the abrupt resignation of Buddy Parker Sept. 6.

The Steelers have never won a division title in 33 years.

Austin played guard for the New York Giants in 1949 and 1950, and after two years in the service, returned to the club from 1953 through 1957.

He coached at Wichita University in 1958 before moving to Green Bay.

HEADING FOR PITTSBURGH is Bill Austin, formerly an assistant coach of the Los Angeles Rams, as he is shown packing his suitcase Thursday after he was named as the new head coach of the Steelers. The Pittsburgh club has not won a divisional title in 33 years of NFL play and Austin takes over a team which won two of 14 league games in 1965. (UPI Telephoto)

Geiberger Captures Early Lead As Top Candidates Eye Easy Course

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema and Billy Casper made their bid for the second-round lead in the $104,500 Bing Crosby Golf Tournament today playing the course which produced the low scores for the first 18 holes.

All three were in position to move in front as they toured the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course where Al Geiberger shot a 68 on Thursday to grab the lead.

Four others had 69s but moved today to rugged Pebble Beach.

Palmer and Lema fashioned two-under-par 70s over the Cypress Point course, generally figured a couple of strokes tougher than Monterey Peninsula, and Casper had a 71. Palmer and Casper already are winners this year — Arnie at Los Angeles and Casper in his home town of San Diego.

In runner-up spots going into the second round were Californians Ken Tons of San Jose, Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs and Lee Raymond of Redwood City plus Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City.

Geiberger isn't awed by Pebble Beach. In 1964, when he finished fourth in the Crosby, he shot a 73 on a windy, final day after opening the tournament with an 80. He followed with a 68 and 67.

Walker Cup amateur Dale Morey of High Point, N.C., playing with a handicap of five strokes, helped his pro partner Gay Brewer by 14 as they carded a best-ball 60 to lead the pro-amateur division. Brewer shot a 74, but on the five holes where he had handicap strokes, Morey recorded a natural birdie and four pars which went down on the score card as an eagle and four birds because of the handicap strokes.

Among five teams tied for second at 62 were Al Besselink and Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale. Left-hander Sandy Koufax of the world baseball champions helped his partner, Ken Still, with eight strokes for a 63.

Brilliant sunshine greeted the Crosby and brought out a gallery of 25,000, largest ever for an opening day.

Jack Nicklaus, despite going over par on two of the final three holes, hit a 73 at Cypress Point in his first competitive outing of this year.

Bill Ogden had mixed emotions. He sank a hole-in-one on the 155-yard third hole at Monterey and seemed headed for a great score until the final three holes. On those the veteran pro from Tucson, Ariz., lost four strokes to par and finished at 72.

Clay Admits He 'Carried' Floyd

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay admits now that he carried Floyd Patterson in their title fight last Nov. 22 at Las Vegas, Nev.

Previously, the heavyweight champion had denied he permitted Patterson to continue in their one-sided, cat-and-mouse affair which the referee finally halted in the 12th round.

Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, made the admission in answering a question by sportscaster Howard Cosell while they were watching the fight film and recording a tape commentary. The film and commentary will be aired by the American Broadcasting Co. on the Wide World of Sports television program Saturday, Jan. 29.

"I want to know why you weren't more aggressive when you had the boy bombed out?" asked Cosell while they were watching the seventh round.

"I wouldn't want to hurt nobody just for the pleasure of people in the audience," replied Clay.

"Are you telling me in a kind of way that you carried the boy at this point?" asked Cosell.

"Well, yes," said Clay. "I boxed him and just whupped him. You would be one of the first to jump on me if he was hurt seriously. I'm wrong if I do, wrong if I don't. I beat him nice — and clean.

"Every fighter should take it easy on a man if he is seriously hurt. I'd rather hear you talk about me carrying a man than killing a man. Like I said, I'm wrong either way."

Before the fight Clay said he intended to give "the Rabbit," as he called Patterson, a sound beating.

More Than Any Other Sport

Practice, Concentration Keys To Game, Ted Claims

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, the 103rd member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, claims that the game requires more practice and concentration than any other sport.

Williams, a noted fisherman and a part-time golfer in recent years, emphasized the rigors on the road to baseball stardom Thursday after his landslide election to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

"Baseball takes more hours of practice and concentration than any other sport," the former Boston Red Sox slugger said. "No other sport requires as much practice. There are no short cuts in baseball."

Williams believes his natural ability "has been overrated and overstressed."

"Baseball is a lot more than natural ability," he said. "I had baseball sense, but you need guidance to know what to do and how to develop your ability. And you've got to work. Stan Musial understood the meaning of practice and he developed himself into a great hitter."

Williams, who retired in 1960 with a .344 lifetime average and 521 homers in 19 seasons with the Red Sox, polled a record 282 votes, or 93.8 per cent of the total, in balloting by 10 - year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Williams was ignored on only 20 ballots despite his feud with many sports writers. It was a runaway in his first year of eligibility for the Hall of Fame.

Red Ruffing, who won 273 games in 22 years with the Red Sox, the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, suffered a second straight disappointment. Runner-up to Luke Appling in a runoff election in 1964, Ruffing received 208 votes, 18 shy of the 75 per cent required for election.

Roy Campanella was third with 197 votes, followed by Joe Medwick 187, Lou Boudreau 115, Al Lopez 109 and Enos Slaughter 100.

Williams said he was sorry that many others, especially Ruffing, had failed to win election.

"I wish some of you writers could have hit against Ruffing," he said.

Williams, in good humor but as outspoken at the age of 47 as he was in his younger days, also pleaded that rules be left alone to give hitters a break.

"Anytime you take away anything from the hitters you are taking away from the game," he said.

Williams, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame July 25, is looking forward to his position as vice president of the Red Sox. His appointment was announced Thursday.

Blind Youth Runs 40-Yard Dash On High School Team

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A 15-year-old sophomore who has been blind since birth is running the 40-yard dash for Cheverus High School this winter.

In his first start, against Deering High of Portland, William J. (Billy) Calahan of South Portland was clocked at 7.7 seconds. The winning time was 5.2.

Bill cut his time to 6.9 in practice Wednesday, hopes to get it down to 6.5 by season's end. And he also plans to do the 100-yard dash outdoors in the spring.

A reporter asked him if he were frightened in competition.

"Never," he replied. "I'm excited and anxious to do my best but not frightened."

How does he stay in his own lane?

Billy holds in his left hand a metal ring which slides along a light guide rope. He is caught, a couple of strides beyond the finish line, by the Rev. James A. Dempsey, S.J., co - coach of track.

In warm-ups, Billy runs without the guide rope — flanked by a teammate on either side.

Everyone at Cheverus is supposed to take part in some sport. Billy didn't want to be different and Father Dempsey said he'd try to make a dashman out of him if he'd work long and hard.

Scholastically, Billy is in the top 10 of his class. All his books are in braille, and he uses an intricate peg board for mathematical calculations. He's particularly interested in science and writes science news for the school paper.

Track isn't Billy's only sport. He has tried water skiing and does some target shooting at National Guard armory.

"I wouldn't want to hurt nobody just for the pleasure of people in the audience," replied Clay.

"Are you telling me in a kind of way that you carried the boy at this point?" asked Cosell.

"Well, yes," said Clay. "I boxed him and just whupped him. You would be one of the first to jump on me if he was hurt seriously. I'm wrong if I do, wrong if I don't. I beat him nice — and clean.

"Every fighter should take it easy on a man if he is seriously hurt. I'd rather hear you talk about me carrying a man than killing a man. Like I said, I'm wrong either way."

Before the fight Clay said he intended to give "the Rabbit," as he called Patterson, a sound beating.

More Than Any Other Sport

Practice, Concentration Keys To Game, Ted Claims

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, the 103rd member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, claims that the game requires more practice and concentration than any other sport.

Williams, a noted fisherman and a part-time golfer in recent years, emphasized the rigors on the road to baseball stardom Thursday after his landslide election to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

"Baseball takes more hours of practice and concentration than any other sport," the former Boston Red Sox slugger said. "No other sport requires as much practice. There are no short cuts in baseball."

Williams believes his natural ability "has been overrated and overstressed."

"Baseball is a lot more than natural ability," he said. "I had baseball sense, but you need guidance to know what to do and how to develop your ability. And you've got to work. Stan Musial understood the meaning of practice and he developed himself into a great hitter."

Williams, who retired in 1960 with a .344 lifetime average and 521 homers in 19 seasons with the Red Sox, polled a record 282 votes, or 93.8 per cent of the total, in balloting by 10 - year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Williams was ignored on only 20 ballots despite his feud with many sports writers. It was a runaway in his first year of eligibility for the Hall of Fame.

Red Ruffing, who won 273 games in 22 years with the Red Sox, the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, suffered a second straight disappointment. Runner-up to Luke Appling in a runoff election in 1964, Ruffing received 208 votes, 16 shy of the 75 per cent required for election.

Roy Campanella was third with 197 votes, followed by Joe Medwick 187, Lou Boudreau 115, Al Lopez 109 and Enos Slaughter 100.

Williams said he was sorry that many others, especially Ruffing, had failed to win election.

"I wish some of you writers could have hit against Ruffing," he said.

Williams, in good humor but as outspoken at the age of 47 as he was in his younger days, also pleaded that rules be left alone to give hitters a break.

"Anytime you take away anything from the hitters you are taking away from the game," he said.

Williams, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame July 25, is looking forward to his position as vice president of the Red Sox. His appointment was announced Thursday.

Blind Youth Runs 40-Yard Dash On High School Team

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A 15-year-old sophomore who has been blind since birth is running the 40-yard dash for Cheverus High School this winter.

In his first start, against Deering High of Portland, William J. (Billy) Calahan of South Portland was clocked at 7.7 seconds. The winning time was 5.2.

Bill cut his time to 6.9 in practice Wednesday, hopes to get it down to 6.5 by season's end. And he also plans to do the 100-yard dash outdoors in the spring.

A reporter asked him if he were frightened in competition.

"Never," he replied. "I'm excited and anxious to do my best but not frightened."

How does he stay in his own lane?

Billy holds in his left hand a metal ring which slides along a light guide rope. He is caught, a couple of strides beyond the finish line, by the Rev. James A. Dempsey, S.J., co - coach of track.

In warm-ups, Billy runs without the guide rope — flanked by a teammate on either side.

Everyone at Cheverus is supposed to take part in some sport. Billy didn't want to be different and Father Dempsey said he'd try to make a dashman out of him if he'd work long and hard.

Scholastically, Billy is in the top 10 of his class. All his books are in braille, and he uses an intricate peg board for mathematical calculations. He's particularly interested in science and writes science news for the school paper.

Track isn't Billy's only sport. He has tried water skiing and does some target shooting at National Guard armory.

Mid-Year Exams Slow Schedule

Spartans, Nebraska, Tulsa Prove Big Floor Surprises

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State, Nebraska and Tulsa are the surprise teams in college basketball at the halfway mark of the season.

Unbeaten Kentucky, with a 12-game winning streak that has elevated the Wildcats into the No. 2 spot behind top-ranked Duke in The Associated Press poll, has been a surprise, too, but at least the Wildcats received a few votes in the preseason AP poll.

Michigan State, Nebraska and Tulsa didn't get a single vote in the pre - season poll, yet today the Spartans, Cornhuskers and Hurricanes are in first place in three of the toughest conferences.

The Spartans share the top rung in the Big Ten with Michigan, but the Huskers are undisputed leaders in the Big Eight and the Hurricanes are all alone at the top of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Michigan State, under its new coach, John Benington, has compiled the biggest form reversal.

The Spartans finished last in the Big Ten a year ago with a dismal 1-13 mark and 5-18 overall. Today they are 3-0 in league play and 10-3 over-all paced by Stan Washington and John Bailey, a sophomore. If State's two victories over service teams in the holiday Rainbow Classic at Honolulu are included, the Spartans' record is 12-3, but under NCAA rules these games are considered exhibitions.

Nebraska hasn't had a winning season in 15 years, but this year the Huskers are 4-1 in the Big Eight and 12-2 over-all. The play of two sophs, Tom Baack and Stuart Lantz, is making coach Joe Cipriano happy.

Another soph, Eldridge Webb, has led Tulsa into title contention after 10 years of struggling in the valley's second division. Coach Joe Swank's boys are 3-0 in league play and 13-4 over-all.

Tulsa doesn't play again until Jan. 29, but on Saturday Michigan State is at Iowa and Nebraska is host to Oklahoma.

Only two major games were played Thursday night as mid-year exams called a virtual halt to competition. Virginia Tech boosted its record to 12-2 by defeating East Carolina 83-64 and Bowling Green edged Northern Illinois 74-72. Both were home-court victories.

Midland Club Splits Pistol League Match

Midland Sportsmens Club split with Beaver Valley Gun Club in the Beaver County Pistol League action Wednesday night at the Midland range.

Midland captured the .22 Rim Fire pistol match with a 1344 total as Carl Martell paced the shooters with 276.

Jay Wenkous of Beaver Valley took top honors in the match with a 285 as his team scored 1323.

Backing Martell were Bill Phillips, 274; Roy Dunn, 266; Joe Goyak, 265 and Glenn White, 263. Wenkhouse was supported by B. Lash, 270; B. Short, 256; B. Coble, 244 and Earl Pratt, 268.

In center fire competition with .38 and .45 caliber pistols, Wenkhouse paced Beaver Valley to a 1015-858 verdict by firing a 268.

Rounding out the winning total were Al Prosper, 253, B. Lash, 252 and Pratt, 242.

Scoring for Midland were Phillips, 230, Joe Bagosi, 210, Goyak, 217 and Bunn, 201.

Midland hosts the Chippewa Auxiliary Police Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the Beaver County Pistol League competition.

Rams Owner Plays Joke On A. Rooney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Rams owner Dan Reeves got a turn at cracking the contract whip Thursday but he used it to tickle the funny-bone of Pittsburgh Steelers President Art J. Rooney.

A Rams aide said Rooney phoned Reeves to announce he had hired away Rams line coach Bill Austin to be the new Steeler head coach.

"Why, we have Austin under contract," Reeves said, trying to assume the tone of Chicago Bear owner George Halas. "I'm not sure we can let him go."

Reeves played a waiting game for about 30 seconds, then with a guffaw, told Rooney:

"Take him. He's yours. And Austin can take the Rams' secrets to Pittsburgh too."

The story was almost the opposite last week for Reeves when he wanted to make Halas' assistant, George Allen, the new Ram head coach. Halas finally relented after opening court proceedings.

Austin's contract was due to expire in April, the Rams aide said.

Hazzard-ous Situation Is Costly To LA

By The Associated Press

The Baltimore Bullets ran into a Hazzard-ous situation, and it cost the Los Angeles Lakers a victory.

The Bullets came out of the situation Thursday night with four points and a 123-121 victory over the Lakers in the National Basketball Association. In the only other game, St. Louis thumped Detroit 103-92.

Trailing 121-117 with 15 seconds to play, the Bullets cut the Lakers' margin to two points on Johnny Green's two free throws.

Then on the throw in, Los Angeles' Walt Hazzard fumbled the ball, and Green came up with a field goal.

After a timeput, Hazzard again had a problem. He couldn't get the ball into a teammate within the alloted five seconds, and the ball was turned over to the Bullets.

Baltimore was successful in putting the ball in play, and with one second remaining, John Kerr tossed in a one-hander for the victory. The victory snapped the Bullets' four-game losing streak.

Kerr and Gus Johnson each scored 26 points for Baltimore while Jerry West had 37 for Los Angeles.

Veteran Umpire To Be Speaker At Wellsville Dinner

Bill McKinley, veteran American League umpire, will be guest speaker at the Wellsville Jaycees Bosses Night dinner Monday at 6:30 at the SOI Club.

McKinley, who umpired in 2,200 consecutive games, retired following the 1965 season because of a new rule which made it mandatory for umpires 55 and over to retire. He will be 56 in May.

McKinley was the second oldest umpire in point of service, breaking into the American League in August 1946.

He is a native of Kinsman, near Youngstown.

Father Files Complaint On Namath's Deferment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida constituent has complained Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., about the draft deferment of Joe Namath, rookie star of the New York Mets professional football team, while his son fights in Viet Nam.

Rogers read his letter to the house Thursday and said he is asking that a House committee look into the matter.

The father wrote that his 150-pound son suffered a cartilage and ligament injury to his knee while playing football and also had a broken bone in his foot which causes a slight limp after a strain has been put upon it.

But, the father said, the son is with the 1st Cavalry, has engaged in hand-to-hand combat and is now on a search-and-destroy mission near the Cambodian border.

Namath, former Alabama star, was given a physical deferment because of a bad knee. He underwent surgery on Jan. 15, 1965, for removal of a torn cartilage.

In response to earlier criticism about the deferment, the Army said on Dec. 8 that as a professional football player Namath has doctors and trainers close by all the time he's playing or practicing. This would not be necessarily true at all times in the Army, the spokesman said.

Bob Strampe Retains Lead In Pin Event

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Bob Strampe of Detroit retained his lead in the 25th annual National All-Star Bowling Tournament Thursday but his margin was cut to 48 pins by young Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis.

Burton hammered out a 1,096 score to take over second place.

The St. Louis bowler fired games of 189, 172, 248, 241, 246 as the field of 432 men completed two-thirds of the 15-game preliminary.

After today's third round, the 216 men who survive the first cut will roll another 15 games, with 72 advancing to the semi-finals.

Strampe, who won the All-Star title in 1964, shot 1,057 Thursday for a 2,272 total after 10 games.

Former champion Billy Welu (1959) of St. Louis jumped all the way from 42nd place to third place on the strength of an 1,166 series.

An 1,127 series lifted Bob Materasso of New York from 16th place to fourth, and Bill Allen of Orlando, Fla., dropped from second to fifth place with a 1,064 series Thursday.

Township Seeks Pumper Storage

Does anyone have space in his garage for a 550 - gallon pumper?

This question was being asked today by St. Clair Township trustees after receiving word that the Glenmoor volunteer firemen's association no longer would provide housing facilities for the Civil Defense fire truck.

Harry Reckner, assistant chief of the CD fire team, said the truck may have to be returned to Columbus if no solution appears.

There was one ray of hope, however. Reckner reported a man in the Substation area had offered to donate a piece of ground and materials for constructing a garage for the fire truck.

"But this will take time, and we need a place to put it now," Reckner said.

Vacating Action Being Pondered

LISBON — More than 40 appeared Thursday at the county commissioners' office in conjunction with a hearing on vacating portions of three roads in Middleton Township.

If the vacating is approved, it will make way for the Lake Tomahawk development. The 34 petitioners for the subdivision say that closure of township Roads 931, 938 and 1030 would not create a hardship, since the landowners would have direct access to other roads.

Roads 931 and 1030 are located in the southeast quarter of Section 20, while 938 is located in the southeast quarter of Section 21.

More were scheduled to appear today before the commissioners make a decision.

Robert Dale Sturgill, 18, of 217 W. 2nd St. was sentenced to six months in the County Jail, with four months suspended, for contributing to the delinquency of minors. He pleaded guilty.

Two of his younger companions — one 16 yesterday and the other 15 — were made wards of the Court and returned to their parents on special conditions.

The other two—one 17 and the other 16—were returned to the detention room of the jail for a month and a hearing was set for Feb. 15 for a review of their cases.

All four of the younger ones were charged with delinquency.

The two returned to the parents were ordered to observe a 7 p. m. curfew, not to associate with the others and to report regularly to the county Juvenile Officer James Martin.

The five were caught by police after a passerby saw one of them moving about inside the Jackson St. beer store.

Commissioners To Aid Industry Drive In Hancock

Hancock County commissioners voted during a special meeting Wednesday to assist the Northern Hancock Development Association and the West Virginia Department of Commerce in bringing new industry to the county.

The action was taken after E. R. Chandler and Charles Taylor of Chester, representatives of the Northern Hancock group, and Andrew Henry of the industrial division of the state department advised the court on the possibility of out-of-state firms coming to the Newell area.

Commissioner William C. Graham of Chester, commenting on the possibility, declared, "I'm for anything that will help the county."

Hull Blanked Again In NHL

By The Associated Press

The Boston Bruins apparently have come up with a solution to the Bobby Hull problem but unless somebody around the National Hockey League figures one out for the Norm Ullman dilemma, the Detroit Red Wings are going to be on their way to a second straight title.

Boston's Ed Westfall threw a defensive shadow around Hull for the second straight game, limiting the Black Hawks' Blond Bomber to just eight shots as the Bruins extended Chicago's winless streak to four games, 4-3.

Meanwhile, Ullman banged two more goals home bringing his total to nine in the last five games as the Red Wings moved into the top spot ahead of Chicago and Montreal with a 5-2 triumph over the Canadiens. It was the seventh straight without a loss for the sizzling Red Wings and their 13th straight without a setback against Montreal at home.

Hull did get his 37th goal of the season on a power play in the first period but Westfall's close checking prevented Chicago's ace from breaking loose on the kind of splurge that netted him four goals against New York in the Hawks' last start.

Mid-Year Exams Slow Schedule

Spartans, Nebraska, Tulsa Prove Big Floor Surprises

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State, Nebraska and Tulsa are the surprise teams in college basketball at the halfway mark of the season.

Unbeaten Kentucky, with a 12-game winning streak that has elevated the Wildcats into the No. 2 spot behind top-ranked Duke in The Associated Press poll, has been a surprise, too, but at least the Wildcats received a few votes in the preseason AP poll.

Michigan State, Nebraska and Tulsa didn't get a single vote in the pre - season poll, yet today the Spartans, Cornhuskers and Hurricanes are in first place in three of the toughest conferences.

The Spartans share the top rung in the Big Ten with Michigan, but the Huskers are undisputed leaders in the Big Eight and the Hurricanes are all alone at the top of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Michigan State, under its new coach, John Benington, has compiled the biggest form reversal.

The Spartans finished last in the Big Ten a year ago with a dismal 1-13 mark and 5-18 overall. Today they are 3-0 in league play and 10-3 over-all paced by Stan Washington and John Bailey, a sophomore. If State's two victories over service teams in the holiday Rainbow Classic at Honolulu are included, the Spartans' record is 12-3, but under NCAA rules these games are considered exhibitions.

Nebraska hasn't had a winning season in 15 years, but this year the Huskers are 4-1 in the Big Eight and 12-2 over-all. The play of two sophs, Tom Baack and Stuart Lantz, is making coach Joe Cipriano happy.

Another soph, Eldridge Webb, has led Tulsa into title contention after 10 years of struggling in the valley's second division. Coach Joe Swank's boys are 3-0 in league play and 13-4 over-all.

Tulsa doesn't play again until Jan. 29, but on Saturday Michigan State is at Iowa and Nebraska is host to Oklahoma.

Only two major games were played Thursday night as mid-year exams called a virtual halt to competition. Virginia Tech boosted its record to 12-2 by defeating East Carolina 83-64 and Bowling Green edged Northern Illinois 74-72. Both were home-court victories.

Hazzard-ous Situation Is Costly To LA

By The Associated Press

The Baltimore Bullets ran into a Hazzard-ous situation, and it cost the Los Angeles Lakers a victory.

The Bullets came out of the situation Thursday night with four points and a 123-121 victory over the Lakers in the National Basketball Association. In the only other game, St. Louis thumped Detroit 103-92.

Trailing 121-117 with 15 seconds to play, the Bullets cut the Lakers' margin to two points on Johnny Green's two free throws.

Then on the throw in, Los Angeles' Walt Hazzard fumbled the ball, and Green came up with a field goal.

After a timeput, Hazzard again had a problem. He couldn't get the ball into a teammate within the alloted five seconds, and the ball was turned over to the Bullets.

Baltimore was successful in putting the ball in play, and with one second remaining, John Kerr tossed in a one-hander for the victory. The victory snapped the Bullets' four-game losing streak.

Kerr and Gus Johnson each scored 26 points for Baltimore while Jerry West had 37 for Los Angeles.

Father Files Complaint On Namath's Deferment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida constituent has complained Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., about the draft deferment of Joe Namath, rookie star of the New York Mets professional football team, while his son fights in Viet Nam.

Rogers read his letter to the house Thursday and said he is asking that a House committee look into the matter.

The father wrote that his 150-pound son suffered a cartilage and ligament injury to his knee while playing football and also had a broken bone in his foot which causes a slight limp after a strain has been put upon it.

But, the father said, the son is with the 1st Cavalry, has engaged in hand-to-hand combat and is now on a search-and-destroy mission near the Cambodian border.

Namath, former Alabama star, was given a physical deferment because of a bad knee. He underwent surgery on Jan. 15, 1965, for removal of a torn cartilage.

In response to earlier criticism about the deferment, the Army said on Dec. 8 that as a professional football player Namath has doctors and trainers close by all the time he's playing or practicing. This would not be necessarily true at all times in the Army, the spokesman said.

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Bob Strampe of Detroit retained his lead in the 25th annual National All-Star Bowling Tournament Thursday but his margin was cut to 48 pins by young Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis.

Burton hammered out a 1,096 score to take over second place.

The St. Louis bowler fired games of 189, 172, 248, 241, 246 as the field of 432 men completed two-thirds of the 15-game preliminary.

Rams Owner Plays Joke On A. Rooney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Rams owner Dan Reeves got a turn at cracking the contract whip Thursday but he used it to tickle the funny-bone of Pittsburgh Steelers President Art J. Rooney.

A Rams aide said Rooney phoned Reeves to announce he had hired away Rams line coach Bill Austin to be the new Steeler head coach.

"Why, we have Austin under contract," Reeves said, trying to assume the tone of Chicago Bear owner George Halas. "I'm not sure we can let him go."

Reeves played a waiting game for about 30 seconds, then with a guffaw, told Rooney:

"Take him. He's yours. And Austin can take the Rams' secrets to Pittsburgh too."

The story was almost the opposite last week for Reeves when he wanted to make Halas' assistant, George Allen, the new Ram head coach. Halas finally relented after opening court proceedings.

Austin's contract was due to expire in April, the Rams aide said.

Does anyone have space in his garage for a 550 - gallon pumper?

This question was being asked today by St. Clair Township trustees after receiving word that the Glenmoor volunteer firemen's association no longer would provide housing facilities for the Civil Defense fire truck.

Harry Reckner, assistant chief of the CD fire team, said the truck may have to be returned to Columbus if no solution appears.

There was one ray of hope, however. Reckner reported a man in the Substation area had offered to donate a piece of ground and materials for constructing a garage for the fire truck.

"But this will take time, and we need a place to put it now," Reckner said.

Roads 931 and 1030 are located in the southeast quarter of Section 20, while 938 is located in the southeast quarter of Section 21.

More were scheduled to appear today before the commissioners make a decision.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

MICHAEL L. BELANEY: In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away one year ago today, January 21, 1965. You are not forgotten, my darling, nor will you ever be; as long as life and memory last I will remember thee. I miss you now; my heart is sore and as time goes by I miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can fill your vacant place. You bade no one a last farewell; you said good-bye to none. Often to my heart comes a bitter cry: Why did my loved one have to die? Then comes an answer so soft and sweet: He is not dead but only sleeps. Bless him and keep him, dear Lord, 'till I reach that distant shore; then let us be forever together just once more. Sadly missed by his wife Mary, sister, brother-in-laws, nieces and nephews.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

MICHAEL L. BELANEY: In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away one year ago today, January 21, 1965. You are not forgotten, my darling, nor will you ever be; as long as life and memory last I will remember thee. I miss you now; my heart is sore and as time goes by I miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can fill your vacant place. You bade no one a last farewell; you said good-bye to none. Often to my heart comes a bitter cry: Why did my loved one have to die? Then comes an answer so soft and sweet: He is not dead but only sleeps. Bless him and keep him, dear Lord, 'till I reach that distant shore; then let us be forever together just once more. Sadly missed by his wife Mary, sister, brother-in-laws, nieces and nephews.

Junior Editors Quiz on FLAMES

QUESTION: Why do the flames of candles and matches go straight up?

ANSWER: When the candle and the match burn, particles in them are being united with the oxygen in the air in a process called oxidation or combustion. The light of the match or candle is one result. Another is heat. We all know how flames burn us when we get too close. This heat of the flame means that the air above it becomes heated. Hot air is lighter than cold air and tends to rise. It also expands, as suggested by the arrows in lower sketch (A). A partial vaccum, or partly empty space, is created; and the light warm air moves up to occupy it, as in (B). Flames, being light, join in this upward movement. Being very hot, they are themselves creating the draft or circulation of air which is taking place. Thus, they rise up along with the hot air.

You can check the movement of heated air upward by observing steam rising out of a kettle. This upward movement of warm air makes the winds, as currents of cold air sink and blow in to replace it. The sun's rays, pouring down and warming up the earth, are what starts the upward air movement.

FOR YOU TO DO: Stand on a chair in a room which is being warmed by a radiator and hold your hand up toward the ceiling. It will feel warmer there than when below. This will prove that the warmed air was carried upward.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet no other 16-year-old girl in the world has ever had my problem because nobody has a mother as kooky as mine. Don't get me wrong. I love Mom, but she does some crazy things.

We look alike to begin with, features and coloring and like that. But last night she appeared at the dinner table with her hair combed like mine—very straight, the bangs covering the eyebrows. Only she brought the bangs down to her nose to get the point across. She couldn't see, in fact. She wore my white lipstick and really went to town with the black eyeliner. My false eyelashes (which I only wear on special occasions) made her look positively goofy.

Her only comment was, "How do you like yourself?" Well, I'm sure I don't look that bad and I said so. She answered, "Oh, if God the gift could gi' us to see ourselves as others see us."

I would like your opinion of a mother who would do a wild thing like this.—SORE.

-:-

Dear Sore: I think she has a delicious sense of humor and made excellent adaptation of the quote from Robert Burns. Take the hint, Doll.

Grace At Dinner

Dear Ann: I need an answer because my husband and I are in sharp disagreement.

Bart and I were reared in families where grace was said every night before dinner. We have continued this custom in our home.

Often we give dinner parties for 10 or 12 people. Some of our friends are of our faith. Others belong to a different faith. Still others have no religious beliefs at all.

Should we say our grace when we entertain? Should we select a more universal prayer: Should we pray in our own way before the guests arrive? Or should we skip the prayer altogether when we have company?—MRS. Q.

Dear Mrs. Q.: Since grace is a part of your daily lives I see no reason to skip the prayer or to say it before the guests arrive.

The best solution would be for you and your husband to bow your heads and say a silent prayer. Those who want to join you will do so. In this way each one can pray in his own way—or not at all if that is his choice.

Prodigal Spouse

Dear Ann: Almost 49 years ago I married my first wife. The marriage lasted 13 years. I left her and our three children to chase around. Two years later I married a woman who was eight years my junior. We stayed married until 1960 when she was killed in an accident.

Several months ago I started to go with my first wife again. She remained single and has done a fine job of raising the children. I find her more attractive now than when we first met more than half a century ago.

We have both learned a lot and I'm sure we could find happiness together in the years left to us. We want your answer so we can celebrate our golden wedding anniversary next year. What do you say?—SECOND TIME AROUND.

Dear Second: If you two want to remarry, go ahead. According to my calculations, however, you will not soon be candidates for a golden wedding celebration. You are shy about 36 years of living together, my friend.

-:-

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parents Can Stimulate Creativity

Recently in this column we have discussed the urge in the little child as young as two, three or four to create with all sorts of playthings. Often we have written here of the child under six spinning all sorts of yarns out of his little head. We have noticed that he is more likely to do this if he has often been read to.

Dr. Garry Myers

If you want to see creativity at its best, watch the little child from two to six. See how much he creates without being taught to do so.

However, he may create still more as we, his parents, enjoy his creations.

IN CASE you have closely observed your child before he enters school, you might have seen him creating more than he will create after he enters school. This we observed with our own children.

We took down scores and scores of fanciful yarns they made up voluntarily long before beginning school. We checked these yarns against the written compositions they wrote while in the elementary grades. The latter were painfully inferior in originality and forcefulness of expression.

Dr. E. Paul Torrance, one of the giants among investigators into creativity of children, wrote recently that, "Creative imagination during early childhood seems to reach a peak between four and four-and-a-half years and is followed by a drop at about age five when the child enters school for the first time . . . there are now indications, however, that this drop in five-year-olds is man-made (or culture - made) rather than a natural phenomenon."

PRACTICALLY all the researches in creativity say or assume that most children of all ages would create much more than they do but for the hampering influence of parents and teachers. Their concerted plea is for teachers to allow children to create more.

However, we hardly can place all the blame on teachers. There are many factors in the school setup with so many children together, and the desirability and evitability of considerable regimentation.

Moreover, while children of any age are often stimulated by other children of the group to create, many of them incline to imitate the group when not disagreeing with them.

Often you have heard a teacher tell us with great enthusiasm, of the unusual ideas and creations by her children. She reports what they said or did. From her remarks we might suppose that many of her children, even all of them, were the creators when, actually, one or only a few of them were.

—:—

HER REMAINING problem is to increase the number of young creators.

Of course, in a group and teamwork in which a goodly number of children participate, many of them may evince some creativity.

But, as a rule, creation is an individual matter, which means more significance in individualized or personalized instruction, a goal not easy for any teacher to attain.

My bulletins, "Beginnings of Imagination," "Stimulate Your Child's Imagination," and "Why Read to Baby and Young Child?" may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Check Phone Orders, Businessmen Warned

Businessmen should check suspicious telephone orders for merchandise before making deliveries, Police Chief A. J. Radeschi warned today after a Beechwood family reported it has been plagued with tradesmen arriving with unordered items.

The family reported some lumber which it had not ordered was delivered to its home. Later a dry cleaning firm's truck arrived at the house on a phony request to pick up some garments, the chief said.

Only one family has reported being victimized by the fraudulent phone calls, but its members said other Beechwood families also have been bothered, the chief said. When receiving a suspicious telephoned request for a delivery, the merchant should obtain the family's number from the directory and place a call to double check, the chief advised.

Officers Named In Formation Of Humane Society

The East Liverpool Chapter of the Ohio Federated Humane Societies elected officers during an organization meeting at the home of Mrs. John McThena of Elm St. They are:

Mrs. McThena, president; Mrs. Mary Margaret Gotchell, vice president, and Dog Warden Harold Flowers, secretary-treasurer and investigating officer.

Named to the Board of Directors were Mrs. H. E. Herman, Harold Risinger, the Rev. M. R. Wald and Mrs. Albert Barnes.

Twenty-five were enrolled at the society's first meeting, held Tuesday night. The unit announced it will continue to enroll members, with dues set at $1 per year. Regular meetings were set the second Tuesday of each month. The next will be Feb. 8.

Flowers' duty as investigator will be to check on reported instances of cruelty to both animals and children, the society announced.

Ohio Representative, Area Group Confer

M. A. Bowman, field representative from Toledo, met with officials of Lodge 96 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen this afternoon at the Vesta Motel here.

Among those attending were R. S. Krafft, president, D. M. Barlow, secretary, and A. P. Luckino, local chairman, of the lodge. All are residents of Wellsville.

Job and wage goals for the year were discussed.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet no other 16-year-old girl in the world has ever had my problem because nobody has a mother as kooky as mine. Don't get me wrong. I love Mom, but she does some crazy things.

We look alike to begin with, features and coloring and like that. But last night she appeared at the dinner table with her hair combed like mine—very straight, the bangs covering the eyebrows. Only she brought the bangs down to her nose to get the point across. She couldn't see, in fact. She wore my white lipstick and really went to town with the black eyeliner. My false eyelashes (which I only wear on special occasions) made her look positively goofy.

Her only comment was, "How do you like yourself?" Well, I'm sure I don't look that bad and I said so. She answered, "Oh, if God the gift could gi' us to see ourselves as others see us."

I would like your opinion of a mother who would do a wild thing like this.—SORE.

Dear Sore: I think she has a delicious sense of humor and made excellent adaptation of the quote from Robert Burns. Take the hint, Doll.

Grace At Dinner

Dear Ann: I need an answer because my husband and I are in sharp disagreement.

Bart and I were reared in families where grace was said every night before dinner. We have continued this custom in our home.

Often we give dinner parties for 10 or 12 people. Some of our friends are of our faith. Others belong to a different faith. Still others have no religious beliefs at all.

Should we say our grace when we entertain? Should we select a more universal prayer: Should we pray in our own way before the guests arrive? Or should we skip the prayer altogether when we have company?—MRS. Q.

Dear Mrs. Q.: Since grace is a part of your daily lives I see no reason to skip the prayer or to say it before the guests arrive.

The best solution would be for you and your husband to bow your heads and say a silent prayer. Those who want to join you will do so. In this way each one can pray in his own way—or not at all if that is his choice.

Prodigal Spouse

Dear Ann: Almost 49 years ago I married my first wife. The marriage lasted 13 years. I left her and our three children to chase around. Two years later I married a woman who was eight years my junior. We stayed married until 1960 when she was killed in an accident.

Several months ago I started to go with my first wife again. She remained single and has done a fine job of raising the children. I find her more attractive now than when we first met more than half a century ago.

We have both learned a lot and I'm sure we could find happiness together in the years left to us. We want your answer so we can celebrate our golden wedding anniversary next year. What do you say?—SECOND TIME AROUND.

Dear Second: If you two want to remarry, go ahead. According to my calculations, however, you will not soon be candidates for a golden wedding celebration. You are shy about 36 years of living together, my friend.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parents Can Stimulate Creativity

Recently in this column we have discussed the urge in the little child as young as two, three or four to create with all sorts of playthings. Often we have written here of the child under six spinning all sorts of yarns out of his little head. We have noticed that he is more likely to do this if he has often been read to.

Dr. Garry Myers

If you want to see creativity at its best, watch the little child from two to six. See how much he creates without being taught to do so.

However, he may create still more as we, his parents, enjoy his creations.

IN CASE you have closely observed your child before he enters school, you might have seen him creating more than he will create after he enters school. This we observed with our own children.

We took down scores and scores of fanciful yarns they made up voluntarily long before beginning school. We checked these yarns against the written compositions they wrote while in the elementary grades. The latter were painfully inferior in originality and forcefulness of expression.

Dr. E. Paul Torrance, one of the giants among investigators into creativity of children, wrote recently that, "Creative imagination during early childhood seems to reach a peak between four and four-and-a-half years and is followed by a drop at about age five when the child enters school for the first time . . . there are now indications, however, that this drop in five-year-olds is man-made (or culture-made) rather than a natural phenomenon."

PRACTICALLY all the researches in creativity say or assume that most children of all ages would create much more than they do but for the hampering influence of parents and teachers. Their concerted plea is for teachers to allow children to create more.

However, we hardly can place all the blame on teachers. There are many factors in the school setup with so many children together, and the desirability and evitability of considerable regimentation.

Moreover, while children of any age are often stimulated by other children of the group to create, many of them incline to imitate the group when not disagreeing with them.

Often you have heard a teacher tell us with great enthusiasm, of the unusual ideas and creations by her children. She reports what they said or did. From her remarks we might suppose that many of her children, even all of them, were the creators when, actually, one or only a few of them were.

—:—

HER REMAINING problem is to increase the number of young creators.

Of course, in a group and teamwork in which a goodly number of children participate, many of them may evince some creativity.

But, as a rule, creation is an individual matter, which means more significance in individualized or personalized instruction, a goal not easy for any teacher to attain.

Check Phone Orders, Businessmen Warned

Businessmen should check suspicious telephone orders for merchandise before making deliveries, Police Chief A. J. Radeschi warned today after a Beechwood family reported it has been plagued with tradesmen arriving with unordered items.

The family reported some lumber which it had not ordered was delivered to its home. Later a dry cleaning firm's truck arrived at the house on a phony request to pick up some garments, the chief said.

Only one family has reported being victimized by the fraudulent phone calls, but its members said other Beechwood families also have been bothered, the chief said. When receiving a suspicious telephoned request for a delivery, the merchant should obtain the family's number from the directory and place a call to double check, the chief advised.
